Aged Woman Spared By Madman—Sets Fire To Two Victims—Stabs Another

(International News Service)

MEDINA, O., April 15. — Four bodies,—those of a father, a mother ,a son and a boarder at their home—today lay in the morgue at Wooster, near here, offering mute evidence of a tragedy in which the insane jealousy of the father, James McGregor, 60, drove him to slay his wife, child and a friend and then hang himself in his barn.

A 91-year-old woman, Mrs. Amelia Myers, was in Cleveland today, where she was taken after firemen found her in her locked room in the McGregor home.

Sets Family Afire

While the mother, Alice, 41, and the son, Harold Ridley, 20, huddled together after a domestic quarrel, McGregor suddenly appeared and drenched them with kerosene. He followed this by tossing lighted matches at them.

Clinton McAfee, 59, a boarder in the home in West Salem, the scene of the tragedy, hearing the screams of the burning pair, came down from his room, picked up the son and carried him out to a water pump in an attempt to quench the flames.

As McAfee threw water at the youth McGregor ran out and stabbed

"King Alfonso told me that he would like very much to come to America, especially to attend the Chicago exposition in 1932 if he could travel as a private citizen," Mr. Hunt today told nternational News Service. "Now, in view of what has happened, I believe he will come here much sooner, possibly some time this year."

Trout Season Is In Today

Lou McClung Catches Two Eight Inch Trout In Taylor Run

GREEN EXPLAINS HABITS OF TROUT

Patrons of fishing flocked to Lawrence county streams today in hope of being among the first to land trout, the season for that particular species of the finny tribe having been ushered in at 59 minutes to one a. m.

According to returns from the Taylor Run sector, Louis McClung, treasurer for the city of New Castle was among the first to land trout. He is said to have caught two, each of which was eight inches long.

The Taylor Run sector, it is reported, contained 75 fishermen. Twenty eight automobiles were parked in a spot near the Run. Hundreds of other anglers visited other streams in the county.

According to O. H. P. Green, prominently identified with outdoor recreation, the number of licenses granted this year to patrons of trout fishing, exceed the 1930 number.

House At Night Session Votes Against City Manager Plan

ANOTHER BUSY DAY IS STARTED

Many New Measures Come Up For Consideration By State Legislators

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 15.—Another busy day confronted the legislature today as members prepared to reconvene to attack the mass of proposed legislation before them after one of the longest sessions yet held this session in the house.

Highlight of the meeting of the lower chamber was the defeat of the Moore bill which would have enabled second and third class cities to adopt the city manager form of government. The measure went down to defeat ,91 to 103 in the night session after a bitter debate.

Keen Opposition

Opposition to the bill was led by Rep. Steedle, Allegheny, and carried along by Reps. Spangler, York, and Dunn, Allegheny. The measure would have affected all cities of the state except Philadelphia.

In addition to defeating the city manager bill, the house acted on another controversial measure when it passed the Harvey measure providing for creation of municipal corporations to take over private corporation and individual water works. The bill has been long-discussed in

SECRET RENDEZVOUS GOAL OF EXILED ROYAL FAMILY OF SPAIN TODAY

Different Routes Used By Members Of Family In Fleeing Spain

Believed Headed For Eventual Reunion In London—Plans Secret

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, April 15.—The royal family of Spain, exiled from its native land as the long-expected republic swept aside the Bourbon dynasty, departed by different routes from Madrid today to its secret rendezvous in a foreign country.

While Madrid and other Spanish cities carried on night-long rejoicing, cheering the Republic and Provisional President Alcara Zamora, Alfonso XIII boarded the warship Principe Alfonso at Cartagena and shortly after 5 a. m. sailed away to an unrevealed destination.

Queen Leaves In Secret

Queen Victoria, accompanied by the Prince of the Asturias, the Infante Don Jaime, and the Princess Beatrice and Cristina, left Madrid at 8:40 a. m. They were secretly driven to Villalba, near Madrid, where they boarded a train bound for the French frontier shortly before 11 a. m.

A detachment of civil guards protected the Queen and her children. The detour to Villalba was made by car to enable the royal party to avoid the dense throngs at the Madrid railroad terminal where the arrival of Major Ramon Franco, ace airman and refugee revolt leader, was anticipated.

Enroute To London

Presumably the royal refugees, reportedly well supplied with financial resources, will eventually gather in London. Although information

Simultaneously with riotous disturbances in Barcelona, Seville and other cities, the Saragossa syndicalists called a general strike in an effort to compel the new government to accord them representation in the cabinet.

Lightning Kills Indiana Lads

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Ind., April 15.—The bodies of two youths believed killed by lightning were found under a pile of fence rails in a field about 10 miles northeast of here by a searching party early today.

The youths were William Raymond Wood, 17, and Lester James Wood, 27, brothers.

They had been plowing when a violent electrical storm came up. They crawled under the fence rails which were stacked under a tree.

A splintered tree and melted steel objects in the youths' pockets gave proof that a lightning bolt had hit them.

Non-Refueling Record Sought By Two Airmen

Pair In Florida Only Two Hours And Thirty-Five Minutes Short Of Record

(International News Service)

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., April 15.—Two hours and 35 minutes short of a new world's non-refueling endurance record, Walter Lees and Frederick Brossy, Detroit aviators, brought their Diesel-powered monoplane to earth at 10:30 a. m. today, after circling Jacksonville Beach for nearly 74 hours.

They were shooting at the world mark of 75 hours and 23 minutes, held by Lucian Bossourot and Rossle, French aviators.

But while they fell short of making a new world mark, they shattered the old American record of 57 hours by a wide margin. The old American record was held by Eddie Stinson and George Haldeman.

Heavy rain, which had been falling since 5 a. m. and very poor visibility, forced the flyers to earth when they were only a short distance from their goal.

The airmen took off at 8:52 Sunday morning. They were observed from the beach by Dr. Ralph Green, official timer of the National Aeronautical Association.

A new type of non-inflammable fuel was used on the flight, the Disel engine with which the plane was powered has no carburetor, magneto or spark plugs.

J. Wattley Hitt, businessman about town, was in the habit of carrying a considerable amount in bills. One day while he was carrying more than $1,500 all wrapped in some newspaper, it slipped out of his pocket and was lost. Mr. Hitt at once inserted an advertisement in the town newspaper describing as best he could the bills lost, and offering a reward of $200 to anyone who should find and return the money to him.

A reader of the paper, Charlie Hicks by name, recalled, after reading the advertisement, that he had seen a man handling a number of large bills—larger than one would expect that man to have. He at once notified Mr. Hitt and, strange to say, in consequence of this information, Mr. Hitt did recover $1,000 of the money he had lost. What is more, he took a promissory note for the balance.

When Hicks appeared for the reward, however, Mr. Hitt gave him $5 and told him that since all the money was not recovered Hicks had not brought himself within the terms of the reward, and therefore was not entitled to any of it. Hicks sued.

SECRET RENDEZVOUX GOAL OF EXILED ROYAL FAMILY

on this point was meagre, it was indicated here that he Queen would cross over into France and proceed to Paris, while the principle Alfonso may land the deposed monarch at Marseilles.

As the royal family departed, the central railroad station here was packed with thousands of Republicans who were on hand to greet the expected arrival of political refugees pouring in on special trains from the French border. Should the Queen and her children have chosen this route out of Spain, they would have to pass this incoming Republican crowd.

King Leaves Quickly

The deposed Bourbon head, after abdicating a throne held by his ancestors for 1,000 years and witnessing the swift governmental change that made Spain a republic, left his palace quickly by a side door.

Five automobiles slipped away from noisy Madrid a short time later as Provisional President Zamora stepped before the microphone to request the people's allegiance to the new government, and headed south. The blinds of the cars were drawn.

Accompanying the exiled king, so far as could be learned, were the Duke of Miranda, several Royalist supporters, an escort of civil guards, and Alfonso's personal attendant. The cars rushed at fast pace through the dark night, and reached Cartagena before dawn.

Protection In France

It was understood here that the French government has assured the royal families its protection. Indications were that similar welcome would be extended to them in England, where plans for their reception were reported under way. Alfonso is related to the British royal family through his marriage to King George's cousin.

The overturn of the monarchy was almost unique in that the process was wholly devoid of violence. Excitement followed announcement of the King's abdication and assumption of office by Provisional President Zamora, but there were no disorders.

Alfonso, almost as calmly as he signed his every-day state documents, affixed his signature to the long document that ended his dynasty. Confronted with the landslide victory gained by Republican foes in Sunday's municipal elections, and counselled by Monarchists that refusal to abdicate might plunge Spain into civil war, he accepted the gold pen proffered by Alcala Zamora and signed away the monarchy.

HOME STREET MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

trouble at 306 East Home street.

On their arrival there, the officers went to the second floor berdoom, where the shooting occurred and found Leo Chill lying on the bed with a bullet wound in his right temple. A thirty-two calibre revolver was found lying on the floor near the bed. Four chambers of the revolver were loaded and one was empty.

The wounded man was carried out and placed in the police car and rushed to the New Castle Hospital, after a brief preliminary examination by a physician who had been summoned at the time of the discovery of the shooting.

At the hospital, prior to his death conditional absolution according to the rites of the Catholic church, were administered by Rev. Fr. Anthony Donatelli, who had been summoned.

Police Find Note

The police found a note written in Italian and apparently just previous to the shooting in which, according to the interpretation made for the police, the victim of the self-inflicted bullet, intimated certain causes for mental distress, which probably caused him to take his life in a moment of mental disorder.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell was summoned, viewed the remains and upon investigation, found that death was due to a self inflicted bullet.

According to the brother Angelo, who was summoned from his work in the Shenango plant hot mill department, but arrived after the death of his brother, Leo, who was employed in the hot mill department of the New Castle Works, should have reported for duty for the morning turn but had gotten up late, stating that he did not feel well and would not work that day. He had remained home all day, being at home when Angelo started for his work on the afternoon turn.

Shot Not Heard

Mrs. Angelo Chill, his sister-in-law was at home alone with her little child, when the shooting occurred, but did not hear the shot that caused the death of her brother-in-law. Others in adjoining homes also stated that they had heard no shot.

According to Mrs. Chill Leo seemed uneasy and complained of feeling ill. Earlier in the evening he had gone out for a walk, remarking that he was going to take some shoes to get them repaired.

On his return, he had remained for a time on the front porch reading. He had then gone upstairs. A little later, he returned downstairs, secured something, she did not know what and returned upstairs.

Some time after that, Mrs. Chill heard him groaning. Rather frightened, she did not feel like going upstairs herself and called a neighbor woman, Mrs. Julia DeCaprio. She in turn called Patsy Cioffi, who went upstairs, discovered the situation and summoned the police.

The deceased was faithful in his observance of his religious duties and had made his Easter Communion. To his family and friends, his act can only be explained as being the result of a disturbed mental condition. Investigation by the coroner and police indicate this to have been the cause.

Leo Chill was born in this city September 28, 1905, the son of Carmine and Teresa Luongo Chill, and was in the 26th year. Following his birth his family moved back to Italy, where he resided until about 16 years of age, when he returned to this city.

He is survived by his parents, who are in Italy; one brother, Angelo Chill, of 306 East Home street, with whom he resided, and one sister, Mrs. Salvatore Di Lione, of New York City. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SENATE PROBERS MAKE REPORT OF UTILITY FINDING

will get as far as drafting of such a measure. The majority of the Senate seem anxious to take the commission out of politics as far as possible—especially Pinchot politics—but it will hardly be by the route of the superior court.

Six Sign Report

The majority report was signed by Senators Earnest, Dauphin; the chairman, Baldwin, Potter; Parkinson, Green; Rial, Westmoreland, and McClure, Delaware. Senators Buckman, Bucks, and Weingartner, Lawrence, filed a minority report which differed with the superior court appointment phase of the majority. Senator Woodward, Philadelphia, filed his own report, while Senator Norton, Berks, refused to agree with any of the three.

The majority report was a thinly veiled attack on Governor Pinchot, accusing him of refusing to substantiate the charges he had made against the commission and to cooperate with the committee. It asserted that the investigation had "disclosed omissions and errors of judgment by members of the present commission", but failure to find venality of corruption. With that finding the minority report agreed. Even Senator Woodward, who has made no secret of his personal antipathy to Been, also agreed that the hearings failed to develop proof of personal venality by members of the commission.

History of Probe

In presenting the report Senator Earnest outlined the history of the committee's activity. The attacks which Governor Pinchot had made during its sitting and made several proposals for strengthening the public service law. His speech, unlike the committee's report, proposed the removal of the present commission. The report itself proposed giving the power of removal and appointment to the superior court, but did not mention any disposition of the present commissioners.

The majority report also recommended that a commission be appointed to study the entire utility regulation situation. The commission would consist of the chairman of the judiciary general committee of the Senate and one other member to be appointed by the president pro tempore; the chairman of the House judiciary general committee and one other member to be appointed by the speaker and three members named by the superior court.

Recommendations made in the previous report of the committee regarding legislation which its members believe will strengthen the present public service law were reiterated and urged for passage.

Heated Debate

Senator Buckman questioned a statement made by Senator Earnest that the report the latter presented was a majority report, although signed by five out of nine members of the committee. The Buckman speech started the first heated debate of the session, which did not end until charges of "invisible government" and remarks, more or less personal, had been made. The entire proceedings of the committee's secret sessions were dragged out for the entertainment of the entire Senate and spectators.

Although all of the committee members, with the exception of Norton and several other senators, engaged in the debate, the sharpest exchanges were between Senators McClure and Buckman. McClure took exception to Buckman's charges that the committe's work had been hampered by politics and invisible government.

Two Appointments

Senator Frazier, Philadelphia, accused Buckman of having carried information regarding the committee's action to Governor Pinchot and also intimated that the executive may have written the report which the "so-called minority" had presented.

Although the Senate will have to consider public service legislation and the two nominations, it is believed the subject will be allowed to remain dormant at least until next week, when the differences already aroused may have been adjusted.

STAR LORE

HOW OFTEN DOES THE MOON PASS THE SUN?

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

While the moon makes an entire journey around the heavens from a given star back to that same star in 27 1-3 days, it does not pass the sun that often, for the sun appears to be moving eastward, too, along a very similar course. So, to catch up with the sun, the moon has considerably farther to go: It takes the moon 2 1-6 days additional to overtake the sun, or 29½ days. The circuit of the moon from a given star back to that star again is known as the siderial month: the orbital journey of the moon around the heavens from the sun back to sun again is known as the synodic month.

More than 300 other American employes of the company, who had been working in the rural districts where the eight were killed, have been rushed to Puerto Cabezas, now under the protection of the guns of the Uss Asheville and a detachment of marines.

The Standard Fruit steamers, Cefalu and Waunta, are standing by at Puerto Cabezas to remove American citizens to safety.

The insurgents believed to be led by a lieutenant of the Sandino forces, have conducted a series of attacks on American and British plantations and have inflicted heavy damage to properties of the Standard Fruit company, it was said. Natives have not been harmed by the rebels.

CITY MANAGER BILL IS VOTED DOWN BY MEMBERS OF HOUSE

both houses and weighed in light of the utility investigations in both and passage was attributed to testimony developed at the hearings.

Repeal Bill Out

Though its calendar was considerably lightened by passage of bills, their places were taken today by measures reported out of committee, among them the Sowers joint resolution seeking repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Although all wet and dry measures had been effectually "pickled" by the law and order committee this proposal went to the Federal Relations committee and somehow was reported out to take it place on the calendar. It calls on Congress to call a national constitutional convention to repeal the 18th Amendment and is believed doomed to defeat.

Two New Measures

Two new administration measures were before the house, one making amendments to the motor vehicle code and reducing the license fee for passenger cars by $5 and the driver's license by $1. The measure also makes technical changes in classifications of vehicles, in reciprocity provisions of the license code and in titles of sections. Among them are provisions for payment to municipalities of fines collected for violations in cities, increasing magisterial jurisdiction, prohibition of "hitch hikers" by banning solicitation of rides. The other bill makes numerous minor amendments to the tractor code.

misty day. Green reports after which he explained their nature regarding feeding.

"When they feed, they feed in all parts of the stream" said Green. "If they jump around and play, a fisherman may as well go home. They won't bite."

Trout are reported to be in Taylor Run, Big Run, Slippery Rock, Deer Creek and other streams.

In fishing for trout today some used lures and others "went for the healthy worm."

At any rate, the man who likes outdoor recreation, where he can get back with nature is having his "first inning" today.

Hard Winter Kills Thousands Of Birds

(International News Service)

STRASBURG, France, April 15.—The bodies of thousands of little birds have recently been found under the melting snow in Alsace and through the Black Forest. They are mainly finches, larks, tits and migratory robins which had left their winter quarters in the south for England, Germany, Russia and Scandinavia and were caught in the heavy snow blizzards, dying of starvation and exposure.

The death rate caused by the sudden adverse weather is estimated by scientists to be so great among these smaller birds that it will probably take years before their ranks are filled.

Ornithologists who have been examining the bodies have been able to obtain certain valuable information on the movements of migratory birds, many of which generally travel by night, but were obliged to fly by day because of the storms this winter.

Powdered apples in lozenge form have been made by a German scientist to save persons from the embarrassment of eating the apples in public. What a boon they would have been to Adam and Eve.—The New London Day.

McGILL MOTHERS BANQUET DAUGHTERS

The mothers and daughters of the Arthur McGill school sat down to a most delicious banquet Tuesday evening in the dining room of the First United Presbyterian church with places arranged for 105 at table attractively appointed in green, yellow and white and centered with a green bowl holding a mass of yellow marguerites.

The pep singing throughout the serving of the menu was led by Margaret Preston, with Mrs. Jay L. Reed at the piano, and the way the women and girls responded proved there was nothing materially ailing their vocal chords. The invocation was asked by Mrs. G. M. Landis.

Concluding the banquet the mothers and daughters then adjourned to the Arthur McGill school where a program rounded out the evening to perfection.

The singing of America opened the program and was followed by the Lord's prayer after which a piano number was given by Betty Jane McBride; a reading "Practice Time" was presented by Naomi Kennedy; Joan Thompson gave a recitation; a reading "Young America" by Marjory Vaughn; a tap dance by the 5 and 6 grade girls added to the enjoyment.

An unusual song "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree" was given by members of the Parent-Teacher Association. It was led by Mrs. J. A. McNeill and enacted by Mrs. E. L. Thompson.

Mrs. G. M. Landis was the speaker of the evening and she chose for her topic "Girls of Today—Mothers of Tomorrow" and she emphasized the point, that, as a parent co-operation should be given in every way to the school. She further stated that a typical mother should be a home maker, gracious in speech, sympathetic and faithful and abounding in love.

As the child imitates her mother, the mother's reward will be in the reflection of her energies in the child. She also pointed out to the girls that they should be workers and not shirkers. Her address was well received and will no doubt prove beneficial to those who heard her.

The singing of P. T. A. songs brought the meeting to a close.

JUST RAMBLING AROUND

NEW CASTLE women are continuing their work of planting trees. Several new parks and beauty spots about the city and county were visited yesterday or will be visited this week by representatives of the Federated Clubs, and trees planted as memorials. It should be a great thing if more civic organizations would enter into this tree planting project. New Castle and Lawrence county can stand the addition of many more shade trees.

Word that the New Wilmington to Mercer highway is to be paved during the present summer, is an announcement that is as important to New Castle and Lawrence county as it is to Mercer county, many here believe. That seven mile connection between the two county seats is one that should have been constructed years ago, but it has been delayed until most all other roads in Mercer county were completed. It will give a direct route into Mercer, from New Castle, over a hard road, and will enable New Castle drivers to cut the distance from this city to points north of Mercer considerably.

City council's addition to the gardening project for the unemployed is worthwhile. The city will allow use of all vacant lots owned by the municipality for gardening purposes this summer. The project is already taken up. There should be no delay in the allotting of these plots so that those desiring to garden them could start at once. With the Red Cross and other agencies furnishing free seeds, these gardens will be a real aid to many.

Yes, and why can't a proposition be worked out in the county, as well as the city. Under the co-operation of the New Castle Mining and Clay Products company and the county poor director, a plan was worked out whereby the winter's supply of coal was provided for all who come to dig it. Why can't the poor farm be used this summer to grow food for those who are regularly dependent upon the poor department of the county by use of the labor of these persons? We haven't gone into the matter thoroughly, but why isn't it feasible to raise fifteen or twenty acres of potatoes at the poor farm for the use of those dependent upon the charity of the county for food, and to use the labor of those being supported by the county to do the planting and cultivating?

Abdication of King Alfonso and the establishment of a Republic in Spain is but carrying out a program that has seemed a certainty for a long time. The days of absolute monarchies are long since doomed. What kind of a Republican form of government Spain will evolve is a matter that only the future will determine. But the people of that country should be ready for self government by this time, as the idea has been in the air for years past.

Enthusiasts for the overthrow of prohibition were given a setback when Governor Louis L. Emmerson, of the state of Illinois vetoed the bill which the state legislature had passed which would have set aside the prohibition enforcement law in that state. The governor will receive the plaudits of millions of Americans. In his veto he said: "It attempts to nullify the provisions of the eighteenth amendment. I am not for nullification. Destructive principles which do not protect the lives and homes of our citizens will not afford a solution of the liquor problem." How any governor can properly sign a law whose only aim is state nullification of an amendment to the national constitution is more than we can understand.

And just along this line—We fail to register any deep enthusiasm over pictures of women in the metropolitan press, with an accompanying explanation that they are on their way to this, or that conference for the purpose of working for the overthrow of prohibition. It is their privilege, of course, but we could name a lot of things that women could devote their time to, with better advantage, than working for the return of the saloon.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Some eighty or ninety years ago, in the days of the old stone small top stage furnaces, there existed within the downtown district of the city, an iron ore mine, from which ore was secured with which to make iron.

This was along or rather in the hillside just off Neshannock avenue as it now exists and about three hundred feet to the northeast of North street, where it intersects Neshannock avenue.

The opening into the ore bank or mine, which ever your fancy may designate it, was in the side of the hill and there was an elevated platform ran out from it so that wagons or rather carts then used for transportation purposes might back up to it and receive the ore.

At that time, the section between the hill and the roadway was a swamp and in order that the wagons might get to the place, there was a corduroy or plant road leading to the place. It was so situated that the wagons could drive in, load and drive out again without any unnecessary trouble.

The deposit of iron ore apparently was not great and did not last many years, even though the quantity used was small as compared with present day requirements.

And some seventy years ago, the only indication of the activities of earlier days was the old platform where the wagons were loaded. The opening to the bank was closed. It is said that several of the old carts used were buried in the old bank or mine, when it went out of use.

All Of Us

That High Horse of Yours Say "We," Not "They" Tramp the Dusty Road With Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Don't look at us in that Superior Way. You're not so delicate, you're not so sensitive, you're just like the rest of us.

You're not fooling us at all. When you run for a street car, you get red and sweaty—like us. When you're tired, you're cross—like us. And when people praise you, you're pleased—like us. You belong to this human race, too—just like the rest of us.

We know. We see. Don't say: "You don't understand me—I'm different." We don't believe you. We've heard that story before, and we know it isn't true. And besides, if you want us to love you, you'd better be like other people. Then we'll feel at home with you and comfortable when you are around—because we'll know you are weak as we are weak, selfish as we are selfish, strong as we are strong, dreaming the same dreams, hoping for the same little triumphs.

Be superior if you can be but don't be so snippy about it. And when you talk about human beings, don't act as if you were a race apart. Don't say "People are so stupid; people are so cruel; they live such foolish, dull and crawling lives."

Instead, if you are going to abuse poor humanity, use "we" instead of "they." Say, "We do not live as we were meant to live. We are stupid when we should be wise. We are humble when we should be proud. We find life dull and we ARE dull, when we could make it exciting if we cared enough."

Say "we" instead of "they" and we'll know you're one of our kind. You belong to our party. You're one of the gang. Say "we" and we'll know you don't feel superior. Way up there, looking down at us, you say: "All those people look like ants." Well, if we were up there, looking down at you, you'd look like an ant, too." Don't you know that?

Get off your high horse and tramp along the dusty road with the rest of us. That's where you belong—with us. And you'll be happier when you find that out.

Modern Miracles

By S. S. MYERS

There are some folks who do not believe in miracles, either modern or ancient. Because they can not understand they refuse to believe. This reminds one of the mountaineer who came to the city and visited the Zoo. In one of the enclosures was a giraffe. After viewing it for a time he exclaimed: "Shaw! There ain't any such animal!"

A man in Los Angeles talks over the radio and another, in New York, listening in, hears the sound of his voice as readily and as distinctly as if he were in the next room. How did it happen? Sound travels only about 1,100 feet per second which would require several days for it to travel from Los Angeles to New York. Only light and electricity travel fast enough to produce the above result.

In some mysterious way the sound of the speaker's voice in Los Angeles was transformed into electricity, carried at the rate of 186,000 miles a second to New York and there changed back to the speaker's voice. That is a miracle which no one understands, not even Marconi himself. He discovered that it could be done with certain instruments and appliances, but he does not know how it is done.

The same is true of the telephone and telegraph. They are all modern miracles. Jesus worked a miracle when He instantly changed water into wine. The grape vine does the same thing, but it is a slower process comparable to sound traveling across the continent.

Springtime, which brings forth the buds and flowers works a miracle. The chemist may tell you that the heat of the sun causes the roots of vegetation to gather sustenance from the soil which the stem carries to the branches. But he cannot explain it.

Life itself is a miracle which no one understands and he who does not believe in miracles has very little belief in anything worth while.

WE ARE NO RICHER

Than that which we can have in peace.
Than that which we can really appreciate.
Than that which we have really earned.
Than that which makes us bigger men.
Than that which makes us more considerate of our fellows.
Than that which adds to our character.
Than that the value of which we fully use.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Paintings and sculpture have been added to radio, automobiles and other things that may be obtained on the instalment plan. Heretofore instalment selling in art has been limited to old and tried clients.

Buying culture on time payments is a stroke of genius that should net its innovator millions.

CULTURE FOR ALL.

Why shouldn't there be a Rembrandt in every home in this land of smiling plenty?

You object that there are not enough Rembrandts to go round? Nonsense. Somebody said the other day there are about 5,000 of them already in the country. If the demand is there, apply the logic of modern manufacture and jack up the supply.

This business of curtailing the output, in order to maintain a lofty price level, should not be permitted to obtain when the man-in-the-street makes it evident that he craves culture.

And if the American Art Dealers' Association resents the attitude of The Pastor in this matter, let them sue.

PESTS.

You've heard, of course, about the gushing dame who was recounting to her husband, the grandeur and the glories of a Park Ave. home where she'd been to tea that afternoon.

"Why," she said, "the place is simply overrun with Rodins and Murillos."

"That's tough," said the Old Man, who was a bit of a roughneck. "Why don't she try squirting formaldehyde in the cracks?"

SUBLIME TO PEDICULOUS.

I had occasion to stop in the grill of a famous mid-town hotel the other night, after the theatre. It was like invading the Cave of the Winds. A corps of sad-eyed waiters were draped about the place, drooping like so many sick birds. In the southeast corner sat a bald-headed little man and a female companion. Her contempt at his steering her there was patent. At a corner table, in the northwest section a fidgety, undersized chap sat with his elbows on the table, smiling biliously at his granddaughter. If she wasn't his granddaughter she should have been.

The jazz orchestra went into action at intervals, its members looking and playing as if they wished they were dead.

Later, I dropped into a speakeasy in the neighborhood to look for a wayward relative. The place was doing a land-office business.

That's the farce of The Law That Prohibits Good Likker. It puts decent places, like the grill room of a legitimate hotel, out of business and invests with prosperity a dank and dirty hole-in-the-wall where a premium is exacted for the doubtful privilege of inhaling bathtub gin.

"WINE is a food, a tonic, an antiseptic and a prophylactic against appendicitis."

The other is an opinion by the Brewers' Association of Belgium:

"BEER—A litre of beer has the same nourishing power as three eggs or a pound of bread."

VETERAN WARBLER.

New York's oldest chorus girl, in years and service, is Marie Savage. After forty-seven consecutive seasons of spear-toting, twenty-three of them on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, "Mother Savage," as she is known, still lilts like a lark.

GHOST OF THE PAST.

I ran into a girl the other day—she really isn't a girl any longer—who used to be in the chorus of the Weber and Fields show, back around the turn of the century. You'd never think to see her today that once upon a time she had stood tibia to tibia with poor old Frankie Bailey.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

"PERISHABLE-IMMEDIATE-FAST."

Articles of an unusual nature have found their way into the air recently through the coast-to-coast air express service of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., which has been inaugurated in addition to its regular air mail and passenger service.

On one of the first trips of this service, the "ship" carried a saddle of English mutton consigned to Dr. Albert Einstein, noted scientist, while on his visit to California. The saddle was ordered from England, brought to New York by fast steamer and dispatched to Los Angeles by air.

Another shipment of edibles consisted of fresh fruits and nuts from Holland, South America and Georgia shipped from New York to San Francisco, where they were served at a wedding party.

LITTLE SEAMSTRESS

Who wants a seamstress eight years old.
Who plies a needle in and out
And makes her stitches neat and stout
And puts on buttons so they'll hold.
And makes of silken pinks and browns
For dolls the prettiest evening gowns?

Who wants a seamstress who can take
A bit of printed calico
And cut and fashion it and sew,
And out of it pajamas make
For Teddy bears to wear about
Weekends when they're invited out?

Who wants gay coats for dogs and cats
And woolly creatures large and small?
Miss Janet here can fit them all
And dress them in the cutest hats;
She'll fashion everything they need
And all her work is guaranteed.

She threads a needle with dispatch,
Her seams are folded in beneath.
She cuts the stitch ends with her teeth!
For any seamstress she's a match!
That is, by mother I've been told,
For anyone just eight years old!

April's Industrial Smiles

April showers bring May flowers. April's sun encourages smiles. And when March industrial statistics reveal an improvement which is creating April jobs there is indeed cause for a rising vote of thanks for spring.

It is, of course, foolish to sing "all's right with the world" too lustily when millions are jobless and the fair round face of world trade is still distorted by depression toothache. But far and wide are seen small but cheering signs that many matters are improving.

Here in Cleveland the upturn in employment which Commissioner Seiple had predicted for March 15 materialized and now has been helped by an unusually large demand for clean-up workers. At least once this week the local office had more calls for men than it could fill, something without parallel for a year and a half. New York state's accurate index of industrial employment shows a 1.5 gain for March. In New York City the increase was 3.2 per cent.

The extraordinarily heavy winter burden which charity agencies have been carrying has slackened a little. One local breadline has been closed as its patrons dwindled. Even Britain, which approached a state of chronic unemployment years ago, is cheered and almost surprised by a sharp reduction in the number on the dole.

And especially cheering is the determination that when things do get better they shall stay that way. Business magnates and labor leaders are chanting in unison about the responsibility of industry to stabilize employment. And they mean what they say.

A report by the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce shows how widespread is this will not to get caught again. More than 200 American industrial concerns are now using permanent employment regularization plans. Business leaders are talking the language of the social reform theorists used to laugh at.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stylists are discussing the correct wearing of pajama ensembles. On one hand it is contended that they are all right if worn at home or in someone else's home, but are not proper at the theater or public dining rooms. Others contend that they may be very properly worn anywhere that formal clothes are worn

Chilton Speaks To Warren Women On Waterways

Makes Address On Development Of River Canalization Plan In District

SUPPORT IS URGED FOR IMPROVEMENT

Speaking before members of the Trumbull County Federation of Women's Clubs, Tuesday afternoon, Alfred W. Chilton, secretary of the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango Rivers Improvement Association, told this representative group of Ohio women of the development of the plan to secure slackwater navigation for the three rivers in the district.

The history of the movement from its beginning was traced, a plan having been inaugurated as far back as 1759, for water transportation in this district, he told them.

The development of the present effort was sketched from the time a representative group of industrial and civic leaders met in New Castle on November 19, 1929 for the purpose of perfecting an organization to secure the slackwatering of the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango.

Following the organization of an association, representatives were sent to Washington to attend the annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress which was held in December, 1929, and secured representation on the board, he told the Trumbull County women.

Some opposition was encountered from Pittsburgh interests who referred to the present undertaking as a "dead end" canal. Legislation was introduced into Congress, sponsored by Congressman J. Howard Swick and Senator David A. Reed, and a tentative examination and preliminary survey of the streams was authorized.

Later representatives of the organization appeared before the U. S. Army Board of Engineers to convince them of the economic necessity for this movement.

As a result of the efforts of the representatives of the Association, the Trumbull county women were told, the legislation sponsored by Swick and Reed became a part of the National Rivers and Harbors Omnibus Bill which was passed by Congress and signed by President Hoover on July 3, 1930. This preliminary survey has been conducted and a physical survey has been authorized, a report upon which is expected to be made about August 1, 1931.

If their report is favorable, and their is every reason to believe that it will be, they will recommend to the War Department that an appropriation be made for the actual construction of the project, and this will be incorporated in the next Omnibus Rivers and Harbors Bill asking for funds to start actual construction work by the middle of the summer of 1932.

The support of the members of the Federation was asked by Mr. Chilton in order to secure completion of this important project.

Mr. Chilton's talk was very favorably received and many questions were asked by the women, who displayed a profound interest in the project.

French Are Shy On Movie Artists

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 15.—There are no good young movie artists among the French, affirms Director Max Constant in the cinema weekly, "Pour Vous".

"I came over here thinking I would find plenty of good material for making French films in America," says Mr. Constant, "but there is something lacking. I almost begin to believe that the French are not born for the movies. They are not photogenique. They have too fine and delicate features and they do not know how to pose. I have been searching for three months, all over France, and I haven't been able to find anyone, not only as vedette, but for the simplest current roles.

Monessen Garage Damaged By Fire

Monessen Officials Hunt "Firebug" As Many Fires Break Out

(International News Service)

MONESSEN, Pa., April 15.—For the third time in three days fire today broke out in the downtown business section, resulting in damage of $2,500 to a garage and starting authorities on a search for a "firebug."

Total loss from the three fires, each of which occurred between five and six a. m., under mysterious circumstances, was estimated at $37,500.

Fire marshals from the state department of fire today launched an investigation into the origins of the conflagrations.

Saturday morning's fire broke out in the Monessen Plumbing Company resulting in damage estimated at $10,000. Sunday morning the Valley Commercial Supply Company warehouse was the scene of a conflagration which did damage of $25,000. Today's fire was in the garage owned by Ben Albert.

A further peculiarity of each fire which has caused authorities to suspect an incendiary was the fact that each blaze swept a building on a busy street corner.

Trout Fishing Season Is Open

Hundreds In State Start Out For Opening Day's Fishing

MOST OF STREAMS OFFER GOOD SPORT

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 15—Business, politics, worry over the depression, care and work of any kind today were abandoned by an army of Pennsylvanians.

Just about everything else paled into significance after a glance at the calendar.

Today was the opening of the trout fishing season.

And all over the state, anglers betook themselves to well-stocked streams to whip the purling waters for speckled beauties. The walk-out from business and its cares knew no castes—it ran through the ranks of the state's citizenry from the humblest to the highest. Even Governor Gifford Pinchot abandoned the cares of state to make an excursion to his home at Milford and, in the philosophical sport of the disciples of Izaak Walton, lose himself from the bustle and tension of official life.

Pet flies and favorite rods were out early. Many of them have been ready for days and the more enthusiastic of the anglers were already camped at a previously-selected stream or pool when the season officially opened.

Excellent sport was forecast by officials of the State Fish Commission.

Streams over the state have been liberally stocked and only fish over seven inches have been transferred from the state hatcheries.

With water in most streams at medium height, the rivers and runs are reported in excellent condition and if weather conditions over the state remained good the opening day was expected to be one of the most favorable in years for large catches.

O. M. Deibler, state commissioner of fisheries, and other officials of the fish commission wished the anglers good sport and well-filled creels.

But, just in case—

Fish wardens, augmented by game wardens and state police, had instructions to keep close watch along the stocked streams for possible violations of the fish laws. A close check will be kept on all violators during the season, H. R. Stackhouse, executive secretary of the commission, said.

But few anglers, however, set out with any idea of violating the law, officials believed. All they asked was a quiet pool, fair weather and "an even break" with the wily trout.

That, indeed, were sport for kings.

Trinity Players In Tourney Thursday

Will Present One Of Three Plays In Religious Tournament Here

The third one act play to be presented on the program of the religious drama tournament for Thursday, April 16, at 8:15 p. m. in the senior high school auditorium will be given by the Trinity Episcopal church. The play, entitled "Behold the Man" written by Brandon Tynan" is under the direction of Mr. Dudley Arnold.

The action of "Behold the Man" takes place in the rectory of a church in a town in the coal regions of Pennsylvania. The play is based upon the stirring story of a priest who stands in conflict between an urge to save his life, neglecting his duty, and the impulse to risk his life, standing by his ideals and obligations. His final choice is consistent with the great faith he embraces.

The young people who are taking parts in this play have all had considerable experience in dramatic work. Indeed, New Castle has already witnessed their ability in previous productions, presented a few years back by the high school and more recently by the Theatre Guild. Hence, a treat is in store for all those who plan to be present to witness the plays to be presented on Thursday evening.

FORMER JUSTICE IS DENIED NEW TRIAL

WARREN, O. April 15—Counsel for A. E. Nesbitt, former justice of peace of Niles, convicted on an indictment charging compounding a felony, told Judge William A. Carter an appeal would be taken to the district court of appeals. Carter then deferred sentence. The judge had refused to grant a new trial to Nesbitt, declaring the evidence sufficient for a conviction.

Fishing Fever

I just can't resist that feeling, that so often comes a stealing—
In the morning as the robins start to sing.
Seems I lose my sense of reason, in that early fishing season,
As the urge is coming on in days of Spring.
Just to be some place "way out"
near those wily speckled Trout.

It may seem like foolish prattle. But its just too much to battle—
As my spade turns up that lively angle worm.
I just feel that I should do it, something seems to drive me to it.
While I see that glossy, wiggly fellow squirm.
Seems that something pulls me out to that sly old Rainbow Trout.

True a fellow should be working,
never for a minute shirking—
There are duties everybody should attend.
But it surely isn't yellow, When a good hard working fellow,
Slips a day where care, or worry never blend.
By that babling brook "way out,
Near a likely place for Trout.

Domestic Demand For Gasoline Is Showing Increase

Committee On Petroleum Economics Reaches Definite Conclusion

UNITED STATES IS LOSING OUT

Business Depression Remains As "An Unfavorable Factor" To Oil Industry

By HARRY WARD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 15. — In considering the probable demand for gasoline during the April to September period of this year, the voluntary committee on Petroleum economics has reached the conclusion that the effects of the business depression will remain as "an unfavorable factor" during the first two months of the period, it was announced today in its final report.

The committee has also concluded that domestic demand during the final month of the 1930 period was somewhat higher than normally could be expected and, consequently, estimated for September a domestic demand slightly lower than that recorded for September a year ago.

Estimates Made

Having taken these divergent tendencies into account, the committee estimates that the domestic demand for gasoline will exceed that of the preceding year during June, July and August and that April, May and September domestic demand will not equal the 1930 levels.

As a final result of the committee's study, domestic demand during the 1931 period is estimated at 228,800,000 barrels, an increase of 1.5 per cent over the domestic demand of 219,589,000 barrels during the April to September period of the preceding year.

"Considering the quantities of gasoline entering foreign trade from the major shipping countries, it appears that the United States is losing its relative position in the world gasoline market," the report said. "Although gasoline exports from the United States increased from 43,300,000 barrels in 1927, to 63,200,000 barrels last year, shipments from other major producing countries have been increasing at a more rapid rate."

Exports Decrease

From its consideration of several factors, the committee estimates that gasoline exports from the United States during the April to September period this year will total 29,200,000 barrels, a reduction of approximately 5,300,000 barrels from the comparable 1930 total of 34,519,000 barrels.

The summation of domestic and foreign requirements indicates that the American oil industry, during the period under consideration, should not anticipate a total motor fuel demand in excess of 252,000,000 barrels, a decline of 0.8 per cent from the comparable 1930 figure of 254,108,000 barrels.

To meet the estimated total domestic and foreign motor fuel demand of 252,000,000 barrels, the committee anticipates receipts of 6,600,000 barrels from foreign sources, the withdrawal of 17,400,000 barrels from storage, the supply of 3,860,000 barrels from miscellaneous sources and the production of 224,140,000 barrels at domestic refineries.

Decline Is Shown

"Estimates based upon a study of all reliable data available indicate that receipts of gasoline from foreign refining centers will be reduced from 9,863,000 barrels received during the 1930 period to approximately 6,600,000 barrels during the six months period of 1931, a decline of 33 per cent," the report said.

"In the absence of final data, stocks of gasoline held in storage at refineries on April 1 have been calculated to be 48,000,000 barrels. The committee has estimated that an inventory objective of 30,600,000 barrels for stocks on Sept. 30, therefore would require a net withdrawal from gasoline stocks of 17,400,000 barrels during the period under consideration."

Milady Turns Again To Form Of Corsets

Only They Don't Call Them Corsets Now If You Please

"Foundation Garments" New Name For Article, Experts Announce

By CLAIRE EBHARDT
International News Service Style Expert

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—A renaissance of—don't shudder—corsets!

Not a forecast of a renaissance in these nether garments, but an actual, accomplished fact.

Business depression, under-consumption or over-production—they mean nothing to the corset industry.

A close check-up today revealed that more corsets are now being sold than ever before. Genial smiles have replaced dark frowns of despair among corset manufacturers.

During the war and the years immediately following the corset makers were faced with a decidedly unfavorable outlook. The straight, uncurved boyish figure, in vogue with the post-war flapper, threatened dire things to the corset industry.

Has Reappeared

But that's all changed now. Corsets are with us again. And their return is featured by the universal approval given to their wear.

Old and young, thin, slim, stout and stylish stout have succumbed to the lure of corsets with the new form-fitting mode.

Curves and the new high-waisted long skirts are responsible for the return of the corset. Incidentally, they aren't called corsets any more "Foundation garments" is their new name.

Most of the girdles are boneless, combining essential support with maximum freedom. Many are equipped with panties, doing away with all other garments except the dress.

These one-piece efficiency garments are designed especially for morning, afternoon, sports and evening wear.

Asks Damages For Automobile Smash

Case Of James E. Fee Against Baltimore And Ohio Railroad Co. On Trial

The case of James A. Fee against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, in which Fee is asking for $1,640 damages, as a result of his automobile being struck at the Gardner avenue crossing of the railroad company, is on trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand today.

Fee, an employee of the Erie railroad, was driving west on Gardner avenue on the afternoon of April 19th, 1930. He claims that by reason of a yard office near the track, he did not see the approach of a Baltimore and Ohio engine which was shifting two cars. He was struck and his car hurled against a telephone pole.

It is claimed by Fee that he did not hear any bell rung or warning given on the approach of the train, and that the accident was due to the negligence of the defendant company. His car was damaged to the amount of $340. He claims $300 depreciation and $1000 for loss of the use of the car. He says that he was not working for the Erie at the time and had a contract with a dry cleaning company by which he could make $35 per week with his car, and that is why he wants pay for the loss of its use.

The railroad company denies negligence in the operation of the train.

Rioting Occurs In Barcelona As Kingdom Totters

Republicans And Communists Stage Riots As King Alfonso Abdicates

STERN MEASURES WILL BE TAKEN

(International News Service)

BARCELONA, April 15.—The republic of Catalonia, proclaimed before news of King Alfonso's abdication reached this city, faced serious difficulties today as Republicans and Communists rioted throughout the city.

The new central government at Madrid was believed ready to invoke stern suppressive measures as street fighting here grew more serious hourly, with two persons already killed and a score hurt.

The Communists were blamed with inciting the disorders. Troops refused to obey the provisional government of President Francisco Macia, who assumed office on a formal promise that Catalonia would join under the federated system comprising the Spanish republic.

Hopeless Situation

Unable to control the outbreaks, the local government was soon faced with a hopeless situation. A mob stormed the city prison and freed all prisoners, including criminals.

On orders of the government to restore, self-appointed army leader General Lopez Ochoa declared that his men would accept orders only from Provisional President Zamora at Madrid.

Nearly three thousand military prisoners were released from prison and escorted by a singing crowd through the main streets. The marching mobs hailed the overthrow of the monarchy with frenzied celebration and cheering.

Republican flags appeared as if by magic, and military bands played everywhere. At the height of the celebration, the Communists appeared with red flags, precipitating disorders.

New Castle Man Praises New Herbal Medicine

"Brought Relief to Troubles With Stomach and Nerves After Year of Suffering," Says Railroad Employee.

"Because Nu-Erb has relieved me of stomach troubles after all other medicines had failed, I cannot find words to praise it highly enough," said Mr. March Schawl, 9 E. Clayton Street, New Castle, Pa., who has been employed by the Baltimore & Ohio

MR. MARCH SCHAWL

Railroad in New Castle, for the past 25 years.

"About a year ago, my stomach got badly out of order and up to the time I started using Nu-Erb, It had been continually growing worse. Even the lightest of foods gave me indigestion and a distressing gas formed in my stomach after each meal, from which I could get no relief. I slept poorly at night. I had no appetite to speak of and my nerves seemed to be all on edge.

"I have only been using Nu-Erb a short time, but it helped me from the very first week. Now, I eat just about anything I want and have no trouble afterward with indigestion or gas. My nerves are steady. I sleep soundly at night and I am also feeling better in every way than I have for a long time."

Persons who use Nu-Erb say that there is nothing like this pure herbal medicine for such troubles. It tones and regulates the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and quickly relieves rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb Man now located there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.—Adv.

One Man Injured, Passengers Are Shaken Up Early Today

(International News Service)

OLEAN, N. Y., April 15.—One man was injured, more than a score of passengers were shaken up and traffic on the Buffalo-to-Olean division of the Pennsylvania railroad was tied up early today when the crack Dominion Express, Buffalo to Washington, flashed from the rails thirty-five miles north of here.

Every car of the train, including locomotive, pullmans and day coaches, were derailed. Six of the eight cars were thrown on their sides. One of the coaches plunged down an embankment.

John Market, of Renovo, Pa., flagman on the train, suffered a fractured right leg.

Passengers on the train, twenty-five in all, were taken by bus to Olean where a special train was made up for the express run to Washington.

A broken wheel was believed to have caused the derailment. The train was piloted by George Reilly, engineer, and John Gilmartin, fireman. Both are from Renovo.

Friends For Many Years Meet In Fatal Duel Over Story About Wife

Strange Battle To Death Stirs Cosmopolitan Populace Of Pennsylvania Coal Fields

By RUSS GREEN
Central Press Correspondent

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., April 15.—There have been many strange happenings in this section of Pennsylvania's coal fields, which boasts of so cosmopolitan a population, but none is stranger or more weird than that of a recent twilight duel. Two men of the mountains of Montenegro, boyhood friends and playmates and later bunkmates in a little Serbian colony near here, shot it out.

One man, Savo Raicevich, died with three bullet wounds in his body. A revolver slug tore through his abdomen and two more pierced his brain. The second man, Risto Evo Branovich, was taken to a hospital, his left elbow shattered by a leaden bullet, one toe almost shot away and his left thigh drilled through. A guard of state police was placed at his bedside.

Lived, Worked Together.

Risto and Savo, fellow countrymen, lived in a shack covered with tar paper, asking nothing but the right to breathe free air, to live their own lives, to talk their own language, to eat their foods, to work and to save. Dollars earned at the collieries were saved painfully and methodically. They lived together, ate together, slept together, worked together and harmed no one.

Suddenly, in the twilight of a day late in March, the stillness of the early evening was broken by the roar of a heavily calibered revolver. Shots followed rapidly—five, ten, twenty, and in fear and trembling villagers raced to the police. They told a story of a duel. When Police Chief McLaughlin of Mahanoy City answered the call the warfare was ending.

Strewn around the battleground were 30 empty cartridge shells. Pitched face downward, almost in a small mountain stream that trickled through the woods, was Savo. Thirty feet away was Risto. Savo was dying.

Evidence of a Duel.

Investigating, police and reporters stumbled on a maze of material that listed the gun battle as a duel, agreed upon beforehand, a duel to the death. Police know of no similar occurrence, and investigators hold it is one of the first fatal duels in the United States, arranged in pact, since the days of Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr.

A duel pact, in Russian script, was found, which, translated for police, reads:

Mahanoy City, Pa.
March 26th, 1931.

Risto Evo Brankovich hereby hands the bullet and he calls him to duel, Savo G. Raicevich, six P. M., finger to finger, on the bridge between Pleasant Hill and Primrose. No one knows of this duel on the part of Risto Brankovich.

Signed by my hand:
RISTO BRANKOVICH.

I, Savo Raicevich, accept the challenge. I take the bullet from Risto Brankovitch. I am ready for it.

RISTO BRANKOVICH.
SAVO RAICEVICH.

In the hospital, Risto told of circumstances that brought about the duel. He maintained that Savo, who recently returned from a visit to their native Serbian village, told stories back there of alleged unfaithfulness of Risto's wife. This Risto resented. The men, working side by side in a coal mine for years, separated to work at different places in the colliery.

On the duel day, Risto met Savo returning from work. What started out as a peace meeting resulted in the duel challenge—the sending of a bullet to Savo by Risto, and later the fatal shooting of Savo.

Risto Claims Justification.

Risto said that dueling is countenanced under the law of the hill folk of Montenegro, his native land, but this is denied by Serbs of the colony where the men lived. The Serbian spokesmen say capital punishment is meted the survivor of any pre-arranged duel, and this has been the law for 80 years.

Somewhere in the hills of Montenegro there is a widow with four children. In the same village there is a wife, the mother of two children. One family is bowed with grief. The second wonders what the strange laws of the Americans will do, should Risto survive.

Traction Company Appeals Verdict

Shenango Valley Traction Company Appeals From $1,400 Verdict

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—The Shenango Valley Traction company today appealed to the Superior court from the $1,400 verdict awarded by the Mercer county common pleas court to Mrs. Fannie Crawford, 63, in compensation for injuries received when she was struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car on South Dock street, Sharon, October 17, 1926.

Mrs. Crawford, then residing at 351 Walnut avenue, Sharon, boarded the car in Wheatland, about two miles away. The motorman of the one-man car carried the woman about three hundred feet past her stop, it was contended in previous testimony, and then brought the car to a halt between two authorized stops on a busy street to discharge the passenger.

Counsel for the woman alleged that the company operator was negligent in discharging the passenger as he did when it was alleged he knew that about one-half of the south bound automobiles on the street used the portion of the roadway where Mrs. Crawford alighted.

Seventeen assignments of error in the lower court trial were set forth by the Traction company in an effort to win its appeal today. The company also claimed that Mrs. Crawford was guilty of contributory negligence in stepping off the car at an unauthorized stop.

Senator And Mrs. James J. Davis Inspect Site Near Carlisle, Pa.

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Pa., April 15.—Seeking an eastern Pennsylvania summer home, U. S. Senator James J. Davis and Mrs. Davis today inspected the estate of John Lindner, retired manufacturer, near here. The Lindner estate has already been viewed by Mrs. Davis and considered as a site for the family residence during the summer.

Senator Davis expressed himself pleased with the estate but said no decision would be made as to taking it until he and Mrs. Davis looked over another proposed home in York county, near Emigsville. They left to view the property there shortly after noon.

Asked if he would be a candidate to succeed himself, Senator Davis replied:

"You will have to take that for granted until I announce otherwise."

Shaw and Miss Dorothy Duddleston of East St. Louis, his young woman companion, were entering Shaw's car after attending a theater here on the night of March 6 when the shooting occurred.

SHOW BIZARRE IS REPEATED

Representative Crowd Attends Repetition Of Performance Last Night

With popular prices prevailing, the "Show Bizarre" was repeated at The Cathedral last evening before a representative crowd, the performance going across in the same smooth manner with characterized the two preceding performances.

The same caste took part, and their efforts were well received by the audience, many requests for encores of some of the leading numbers having to be refused because of the policy to keep the show moving along at a rapid pace in order to have the performance concluded at a reasonable hour.

The show was originally presented for the benefit of the Jameson Memorial hospital, and because of the tremendous success scored at the two preceding performances, was repeated again at reduced prices.

Contract Validity Is Basis Of Suit

Case Of The Max Ludwig Company Against The Frew Company On Trial

An advertising contract between the Max Ludwig Company and the Frew Furniture Company is the basis of a suit on trial before Judge Chambers in which the Ludwig Company is seeking to recover $2,934 from the Frew Company.

The plaintiff claims that during the earlier part of 1928 a contract was made with the Frew Company for display advertising to be placed on billboards. The agreement was for three years and the total amount was $4,104.

At the time of the making of the contract Ludwig claims that the Frew Company had solicited the business of furnishing his house and had placed a large amount of furniture in it on approval. On the strength of the advertising contract Ludwig agreed to take the furniture at a price of $7,502.71. Ludwig gave his note for the amount, which was later discounted at a bank by the Frew Company.

Before any actual work had been done toward carrying out the advertising contract that Ludwig had made with the Frew Company, the Ludwig Company claims that the Frew Company, in violation of the agreement, cancelled the contract. Ludwig is now suing the Frew Company for the amount which the loss of the contract meant to him.

The point involved in the case is the validity of the advertising contract between the Ludwig Company and the Frew Company. It was signed by H. M. Frew for the Frew Company, and it is contended by the defendant that H. M. Frew had no authority to execute the contract for the Frew Corporation.

It is admitted by the plaintiff that H. H. Frew signed the contract as follows: "The Frew-Company, H. M. Frew". It is denied that H. M. Frew was manager of the company, and signed at the direction of J. Howard Frew, president of the company. The case is still on trial.

General Strike Of Coal Miners Looming Today

Estimate 58,000 Miners In Lower Pennsylvania Fields May Strike

DOZEN MINES ARE REPORTED IDLE

(International News Service)

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 15.—General strike of 58,000 miners in the lower Pennsylvania Anthracite fields loomed today in the wake of a meeting of representatives of every local union of District No. 9 at which a resolution for a general strike was adopted with little dissent.

The meeting was called to discuss the situation created when some 5,000 miners of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company walked out in protest against curtailment of operations and because of dissatisfaction over work distribution.

Dozen Miners Idle

Nearly a dozen mines, all but one the properties of the Philadelphia and Reading company, were idle today as the situation moved to a crisis.

Long discussion preceded adoption of the general strike resolution, and district and international officers of the United Mine Workers Union were flayed by speakers. Both John L. Lewis, International President, and Martin Brennan, District President, were accused of being "indifferent to the fate of miners."

The working agreement between operators and miners was attacked as a "betrayal" of the rank and file of workers and John Dougherty, son of one of the original organizers of the mine union, declared "failure of union officers to protest against flagrant violations of the spirit of the agreement has driven the men to drastic action to protect themselves."

Urges No Violance

Dougherty advised the men against violance but told them they "faced ruin" unless they took matters into their own hands.

Cessation of work until working time is equalized was demanded in the strike resolution and leaders declared there would be no return to work until their demands were met.

Picketing was being carried on today at the Henry Clay, big Mountain and Bear Valley Collieries to insure they did not work.

Rescue Hounds In Emery Street Fire

Chained Animals Nearly Perish As Flames Advance—More Grass Fires

Three large hunting dogs, chained in a dog house at the side of a garage on Emery street were saved from death by firemen Tuesday afternoon after a grass fire's advancing flames began to surround the animals.

Sixth Ward firemen, called by a woman who discovered the fire at 704-706 Emery street, laid 400 feet of hose, soon had the fire under control and released the dogs.

The homes of Ralph Huston and Loy W. Burnside families were endangered by the flames which began at about 2 p. m. and were quelled an hour later. The grass fire is believed to have started from a rubbish fire on a dump nearby. Flames ate up the grass to a lumber pile and were fast approaching the walls of a garage and the dog house while the Burnside family was away.

Neighbors battered down the garage door and save an automobile. No damage was reported in the fire.

Second Ward firemen fought a big grass fire in the vicinity of Jamison Memorial hospital for over an hour Tuesday afternoon. The fire raged in a wooded section near Garfield and Leasure avenues in the rear of the hospital and could be seen for a great distance.

Firemen employed brooms to beat out a grass fire in a field near Delaware and Euclid avenue early Tuesday evening following the receipt of a telephone call.

A rubbish fire on a hillside on Atlantic avenue, near Etna street, started a grass fire Tuesday evening No. 6 firemen responded at 7:40 p. m. and used brooms to beat out the flames.

A false alarm was received from box 55, Hamilton and Electric street early Tuesday evening and was answered by Central and No. 5 firemen.

Mrs. Geo. Dibble Preaches Sermon

Makes Fine Address At Epworth M. E. Church Last Night

Mrs. George Dibble gave a fine address last night on the topic, "The Master Passion," at the special services now in progress at the Epworth M. E. church.

"The master passion of every Christian should be for Jesus Christ. Love for Him should be as earthly, human love, that which dominates and controls our actions and our lives. Every Christian can determine their love for Jesus Christ by three questions. How much do you love to pray? Not how much do you love to say prayers but really pray? How much do you love to read the Bible? Prayer and Bible Reading and study are almost things of the past and they are two very necessary items in the lives of successful Christians. Then how much do you love to tell others about your Saviour? On these three questions hinge your love and devotion to your God."

Mr. Dibble led the congregation in the singing of some of the old well known gospel songs and contributed several solos during the musical part of the service. The music of the meetings the Dibble's conduct is always outstanding and draws many people.

Services tonight at 7:30 and every night except Saturday. Mrs. Dibble will speak tonight upon the subject, "God Marked Men".

Simple Ceremonies Honor Clemenceau

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 15—Even old Clemenceau himself, who so thoroughly disliked all manner of ostentation, would not have made objections to the very simple ceremony which took place recently at the placing of a bronze tablet on the entrance to the house where he made his home in Paris for more than thirty years. The American landlord who owns the house, Henry Seldon Bacon and who took the leading steps in putting up the tablet, endeavored to carry out the simple ideas of the old "Tiger."

The memorial bears the inscription in French:

"Here lived Clemenceau from 1896 until his death, November 24, 1929."

Bacon, together with six other members of a committee, are making plans to open the house as a Clemenceau museum, having everything just as the great statesman left it, including his glasses on the big circular table and showing how simply the man lived. A few gifts are coming from America.

Our whole life should speak forth our thankfulness.—R. Libbes.

Vice-Consulate Fails To Hoist Republican Flag

Spanish Vice-Consulate At Pittsburgh Awaits Official Report

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—Purple, red and yellow—the tri-color of the newly born Spanish republic—whip and swirl over the Iberian peninsula today.

But the influence of the infant nation has not yet extended to inland America.

Neither the flag of the republic, nor the banner of the monarchy fluttered over the Spanish vice-consulate.

Senor Joseph S. Torriols, vice-consul, explained that the republican colors would not be hoisted until he is officially advised of the abdication of King Alfonso.

Nature won't tolerate a vacuum, so the Saturday Evening Post has to use some kind of filler on the editorial page.

Marry When In Love, Noted Beauty Advises Modern Girl And Boy

By GLADYS GLAD
America's Most Noted Beauty

Should a girl marry young? There's but one answer to that question as far as I'm concerned. A girl should marry when she is certain that she's in love. And whether she's 17 or 27, that's the only time for her to marry.

As a matter of fact, it would be impossible to state definitely a proper age in which to enter matrimony. It all depends on the girl herself. You cannot place every woman in the one group. Come to think of it, I should hate to place even two of my acquaintances in one category. I shudder to think of the consequences if both of them thought only of the same hats, the same dresses, the same shoes—and the same man. Murder would be a polite term for what might happen.

Experts Confused

Every once in so often I pick up my favorite newspaper and find statements on the marriage problem from learned men and women. Strangely enough, they're generally very confusing.

One morning, for instance, I discover Professor McGoogle telling the world that—in order to achieve the perfect mating—the woman must be in her late twenties and the man in his late thirties. But on the following morning Dr. Mary Cutopen says Professor McGoogle doesn't know what he's talking about. The best time for marriage, opines the lady doctor, is when both parties are the same age.

In reading such viewpoints, I often suspect that the folk who are talking are giving themselves a break. They are talking about themselves and settling their own problems. The ideas they had in earlier days have been counted out by time. It's like the kid of 20, who thinks the man of 40 is on the verge of a tombstone. But when the same kid reaches 40 he smiles to himself and says: "Well, I now have the best part of my life before me."

Personally, I can't see the slightest harm in a youthful union if both the boy and girl are morally and financially able to undertake the mutual burden. I don't mean to suggest, of course, that two children should plunge into matrimony without having the slightest idea of the problems that will confront them. Such a thing is farthest from my mind.

In this advanced age the girl of 18 knows just as much about the world as her mother—and quite a bit more than her grandmother. If she falls in love and wants to marry the man of her choice, why tell her she's marrying too young? Who is really wise enough to give her the proper advice?

Marry When in Love

I might write along these lines for pages and pages, but there are 71 reasons why I will not. The first is that, when I was through, I would not have said anything more than I said in my opening paragraph. The other 70 reasons do not matter.

Accordingly, permit me to finish exactly as I began. A girl should marry when she is certain that she has fallen in love. Sensible girls have done that since Noah copyrighted the animal cracker and sensible girls will continue to do it until every school girl understands the Einstein theory. And all the king's horses and all the king's English will never make sensible girls do anything else.

What do you think?

Pennsy Will Use New Steel Rail

New Steel Rail Will Be 32 Pounds Heavier Than Present Rails

STEEL COMPANIES BEGIN PRODUCTION

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—Adoption of a new steel rail, to weigh 150 pounds, 32 pounds heavier than any rail now in use, was announced today by John P. Deasy, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad. Rails of this type will be laid on the main line between Pittsburgh and Altoona.

Early next month, two steel companies, the United States Steel and the Bethlehem, will roll the first heats of a new section of rail designed as a result of investigation and research carried on over a period of two years by a special committee of the engineering department of the railroad and engineers and metallurgists of the steel companies.

Shots Are Fired At Chicken Thieves

Make Their Escape But 60 Chickens Are Found In Auto

SHARON, Pa., April 15—Theft of 60 chickens from the farm of J. D. Everett located three miles north of Orangeville was frustrated late last night when the thieves were discovered at work. Mr. Everett was notified by a farm hand that there was commotion at the chicken house and armed with a shotgun he went to investigate. As he neared the building several men ran from the scene. Several shots were fired at the fleeing men but it is not believed that any took effect. It was discovered that 60 chickens had been taken from the coop.

A short time later a car later identified as belonging to Frederick Ebbert, Kansas City, was found abandoned along the highway about a mile and a half from the Everett farm. All the chickens which had been stolen were found tied in sacks in the rear of the machine. The Ebbert machine had been stolen from its parking place in front of a Greenville residence.

An Essex coach owned by Warren Stevenson, Orangeville barber was stolen from the garage at the rear of the Stevenson home, presumably by the chicken thieves. The car was seen being driven away a short time after the abandoned machine was recovered.

A fool idea at least has sense enough to find a head that has plenty of empty parking space.

Tunnel Disaster Probe Commences In Chicago Today

Inquiry Into Fatal Tunnel Disaster Begun By Officials

ORIGIN OF FIRE IS UNDETERMINED

Coroner And Jury Of Prominent Business Men To Make Recommendations

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 15.—Inquiry to fix responsibility for the sanitary district tunnel disaster in which 11 men were killed and 16 others injured, got under way today.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen and a jury of prominent business men were prepared to visit the scene of the disaster on Chicago's near south side today.

Besides seeking to fix the responsibility for the tragedy, the jury was to make recommendations for the prevention of such catastrophies in the future.

The jury will be accompanied by Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer, as general adviser.

Origin is Unknown.

Thousands visited the death trap today where for 14 hours Monday night and yesterday dramatic feats of heroism were performed as firemen risked and gave their lives in the stifling fumes to rescue 11 persons.

Origin of the fire that swept the underground passage, located in the heart of Chicago's manufacturing district, had not been developed at the inquest held yesterday.

No testimony was introduced concerning the statement of a laborer that the fire got its start from a candle he took into the tunnel to repair leaks.

GENERAL STRIKE PLAN IS INVOKED BY DISGRUNTLED of serious rioting between Republicans and Communists in Barcelona, a general strike was called in that populous industrial city today, it was stated in a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company.

Martial law was declared in force at the first outbreak of disorder.

Gen. Berenguer Hiding

Madrid, April 15.—General Damaso Berenguer, former Premier of Spain whose arrest was ordered today by the provisional Republican government, is in hiding, it was stated in authoritative quarters Reports that he had been apprehended were denied.

Berenguer, whose government attempted to bridge the transition period between the Primo De Rivera dictatorship and the return to constitutional government, won the bitter hatred of the populace by the stern measures he adopted in quashing the army revolt at Jaca, Northern Spain, last year. The leaders of the Jaca revolt were executed by a firing squad.

In hiding with Berenguer is former Chief of Police Mola, of Madrid, who likewise is hated by the populace, and numerous demands were heard in the streets today for the heads of both.

The provisional government has announced it will try all former officials guilty of past misdemeanors.

Alfonso Departs

London, April 15.—Alfonso XIII's departure from Spanish soil was carried out with military formality and a show of courtesy and goodwill on all sides, it was stated today in messages from Cartagena.

Arriving in five automobiles at the Spanish seaport, the deposed king was smartly saluted by two companies of bluejackets as he stepped out of his automobile.

The sailors, drawn up at the dockside where the warship waited to carry him into exile, were headed by the Captain-General of the city and the commander of the cruiser Principe Alfonso.

Brief but dramatic farewell ceremonies honored the departing exruler.

"Sire, I am sorry," said the Captain-General with bowed head as he shook his former sovereign's hand.

Alfonso, according to the information, shrugged in characteristic manner.

"I am only being true to my traditions," he replied.

Then he turned and walked smartly up the gangplank, the officers saluting sharply as their former king departed from Spanish soil.

"Long live the King!" they shouted suddenly.

Alfonso halted, and raised his hand in salute.

"Long live Spain!" he rejoined.

The officers respectfully conducted him to a special cabin and the ship sailed away within a few minutes.

GIBRALTAR, Spain, April 15.—The Spanish warship Principe Alfonso, carrying Alfonso XIII into exile, will pass here today and probably pause long enough to pick up the Infante Don Juan, third son of the fallen monarch.

Don Juan arrived here from Cadiz aboard the Spanish destroyer T-16. He was invited to the government house as guest of Governor Sir Alexander Gordley.

AUTOMOBILES ARE REPORTED DAMAGED

Some damage was done to both machines.

Downfall Of Alfonso Started Ten Years Ago

By J. A. OESTREICHER
International News Service
Cable Editor

NEW YORK, April 15.—The fall of King Alfonso XIII, of Spain, now journeying into exile aboard a Spanish warship, dates directly from a tragic day ten years ago when the monarch went over the heads of his cabinet officers and generals and attempted to direct the Colonial army in its campaign against the Riff in Moroco.

Whether it was an autocratic gesture to be expected of a man born a king or merely an expression of confidence in his own luck and military ability, the action automatically endowed Alfonso with a definite personal responsibility for the terrible disaster that followed.

Within a short while after the king had begun to direct the campaign by telegraph from Madrid, an army of 20,000 men under General Silvestre were trapped by the Riffian hordes in the sun-baked hills above Melilla.

Ten thousand of this number were killed and their bodies left to rot under the broiling sun. The remainder, routed and demoralized, straggled into Melilla to spread the word of the debacle. General Silvestre, according to reliable authorities, put a pistol to his head and blew out his brains.

The Moroccan disaster furnished Spain with one of the gravest crisis in the nation's long and hectic history. The campaign itself had been staged for the frank purpose of restoring to the army some of the prestige lost in Cuba and the Philippines, although the need for stronger military representation in Spain's African colonies was generally admitted.

Until that time Alfonso had been extremely popular with the people and the army, in spite of frequent Republican demonstrations which occurred periodically in various places throughout the nation.

Many political leaders were outspoken in blaming the king and all demanded a thorough investigation and drastic punishment for those responsible for the disaster.

Two courses were open to the king. One was to step forward and take the blame for the disaster, trusting to his own personal popularity to carry him through, and the other was to seek protection behind the bulwark of strength that the loyal section of the army afforded.

He chose the latter course, and sponsored the coup d'etat of Primo De Rivera, Captain-General of Barcelona, which resulted in a "benevolent dictatorship" that lasted for six years.

From 1923 onward, the prestige of the king rapidly diminished. He remained personally popular, but his refusal to modernize the monarchy to conform with a constitutional form of government gradually alienated most liberal leaders from his support and one by one all parties joined the phalanx opposing the throne.

Spain was hard hit by the post-war depression, and poverty and suffering aggravated the discomforts imposed by the dictatorship. Freedom of speech and of the press were things of the past. Stripped of the power to vote, deprived of representation, the people chafed at the yoke, and Alfonso dared not return constitutional guarantees to them until it was too late to save his throne.

The report of the financial agent Theodore Wallace, was accepted as presented.

The morning session adjourned and the visiting pastors and their elders were invited to the dining room of the church, where an elaborate dinner had been provided. At the conclusion of this part of the program Dr. A. J. Randles of this city, in a gracious and humorous speech, thanked the women for their participation in the event.

"Value Of A Soul" Subject Of Sermon

Rev. W. F. Miller, a missionary from Korea, who is speaking in the Church of the Nazarene, delivered a splendid sermon Tuesday evening on "The Value of a Soul", bringing out the point that chemically speaking, a human body is worth about 86 cents, but that the soul is of infinite value, proving this by the fact that Jesus died to save man from death.

A double quartet from Valley Way sang two numbers during the song service.

"Spiritual Suicide" is the subject of this evening's sermon.

Dempsey To Learn By Mail That His Wife Plans Fight

Estelle Has Conference With Attorney, Who Pens Jack Letter

RECONCILIATION IS UP TO HUBBY

Attorney Will Inform Dempsey No Property Settlement Made

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 15.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, today was to learn by air mail that his wife, Estelle Taylor, screen actress, will file suit for divorce here within a few days.

In addition, he was to learn that Mrs. Dempsey will make the complaint as mild as possible.

After a conference with her attorney, Joseph Scott, here last night, Mrs. Dempsey instructed him to inform Dempsey of the proposed action in an air mail letter.

Statement By Attorney.

This surprising development in the marital affairs of the noted couple followed a statement by Attorney Scott yesterday in which he said:

"If Jack Dempsey feels the urge for a reconciliation, the only way he could possibly effect it would be to stop his silly divorce talk and return to Estelle as a repentant bad boy.

"And if Dempsey thinks he made a property settlement upon Miss Taylor, he faces disillusionment."

Dempsey had said he and Estelle had effected a property settlement a year ago.

In the air mail letter to Dempsey he will be requested to have his attorney communicate with Scott.

Considered Telephoning.

Before conferring with her attorney, Miss Taylor had considered telephoning Dempsey she said.

"I did not know what to do,' she said. "I had not heard from Jack nor any of his representatives. Neither has my attorney.

"What would I do should he change his mind and come home? You know what I would do, especially with him saying I caused all the trouble."

By this, it was then assumed that Scott was wrong about the possibility of patching things up if a "repentant, bad boy" returns home.

Denies Allegations.

Estelle further said:

"I am told that Jack blamed me for stories about him and another woman. I did not know anything about them and have never made any observations concerning him. My whole instinct is to fight for Jack rather than against him."

The screen actress had said that she must know from her husband personally what his plans were and until then she would be unable to decide several problems confronting her.

One of them was a trip arranged for this summer in Europe.

"But no matter what happens," Miss Taylor asserted, "I shall keep on studying and working."

Dempsey Denied Rest.

RENO, Nev., April 15—Denied any rest since he arrived here recently with the announced intention of divorcing his actress-wife, Estelle Taylor, Jack Dempsey, former king of the heavyweight pugilists, today planned to take advantage of the opening of the fishing season by snaring trout at Pyramid lake.

Informed that his wife intends to "beat him to the punch" in the matter of filing a divorce complaint, Dempsey stated that it would not make any difference in his plans.

"I will have two suits with which to contend instead of one," he declared.

Reconciliation Foolish.

Dempsey asserted he had not sought to become reconciled with his wife and did not expect to, when told that his wife's lawyer suggested the possibility of a reconciliation if he returned home in a "repentant mood and asked forgiveness," Dempsey asserted:

"That's absurd. What do you think I am? Besides, my wife requested that I come here and get a divorce.

"As for Estelle filing a divorce complaint, why that is her affair. I have nothing to say about it."

Dempsey dined last night at the Willows, a fashionable night club, where he was reported to have previously won $38,000 playing the roulette wheel. Dempsey denied making such "a killing" but reports were given credence in gambling circles nevertheless.

He also laughingly denied the reports linking his name with this woman and that. He termed as "silly" one report that he aspired to become a social registerite like Gene Tunney.

"I did not even know the lady with whom my name was linked," he stated.

Swings Pick In Raid On "Night Owls"

SHARON, Pa., April 15.—Dry raiders wrecked the interior of the Night Owl, a modern resort in the Brookfield (O.) township section, just over the state line, and arrested a man in charge, booked as Pete Mustake, on a liquor charge.

The resort is owned by a man alleged to be a notorious bootlegger and only recently was completed.

The owner had made the resort as raid-proof as possible. The outside walls were built of cement blocks and raiders used picks and axes to gain admittance.

TO SKETCH COD FISHING

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—Romance of Alaska cod fishing will be captured by the sketch pad of a San Francisco artist who recently sailed on a voyage of adventure.

Otis Oldfield, noted artist, joined the crew of the three-masted fishing schooner Louise, which will sail outside the passage to Alaska.

While the crew of 35 is fishing in the north Pacific, Oldfield will tuck himself behind what shelter he can find and make action sketches.

The artist plans to spend 30 or 40 days on board. He will then go ashore and wait for a boat bound for San Francisco. His sketches will be the basis for oil paintings to be done later in his own studio.

Exiled Spanish Royalty Making Way To England

King Alfonso, Queen Victoria And Royal Family Headed Toward England

MAY ESTABLISH TEMPORARY HOMES

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 15.—England, haven of dethroned royalty, opened its arms today to welcome the deposed King Alfonso of Spain and his temporarily homeless family.

While the route and destination of the royal exiles were being kept secret, it was regarded as extremely likely that the king and queen and the various royal princes and princesses would seek and receive sanctuary in Britain.

There are close ties between the British throne and the members of the deposed spanish dynasty. Queen Victoria is a niece of King George and was born in England. Because of this family tie, the king and queen have been frequent visitors to these shores and have always received a hearty welcome.

The probable residence of the deposed royal family is not definitely known. In all likelihood, they will have a wide range of choice if, as is expected, they are accepted as members of the British royal family itself.

Princess Beatrice has a large palace in London, known as Kensington Palace, in which there are a number of vacant apartments which might form a satisfactory home for the Spanish exiles. She also maintains a large residence, Carisbrook Castle, on the Isle of Wight, of which she is governor. This home undoubtedly would prove attractive to Alfonso, as the Isle of Wight is official headquarters for British yachting, and the ex-king is an enthusiastic sailor.

In addition, the Spanish ambassador, the Marques Merry Del Val, one of the staunchest of Spanish Royalists and an exceedingly wealthy man, is understood to have offered his king the hospitality of his palatial mansion in Grosvenor Square.

This home is the most beautiful diplomatic residence in London, and has long been the scene of brilliant social gatherings. The Marques remained in seclusion today, heartbroken over the fall of the Bourbon dynasty.

While Paris remains the favorite place of exile for minor nobility, England always has appealed to dethroned royalty. The former King Manuel of Portugal has lived in a beautiful country home on Strawberry Hill near Twickenham since his abdication in 1910, while Ex-King George of Greece maintains a permanent home in London although he spends most of his time in globe-trotting.

Several members of the former Russian imperial family are living in London, including the Grand Duke Dmitri, who married Miss Audrey Emery, daughter of an American capitalist.

Decisions Are Handed Down By Superior Court

Lower Court Is Reversed In Brady And Murawski Cases Carried Up By Powers

In opinions handed down by the Superior court at Pittsburgh today, the decisions of Judge R. L. Hildebrand were reversed in the cases of the commonwealth against Samuel D. Brady and Albert Murawski. The cases were appealed to the superior court by District Attorney John Powers.

In the first case Brady was charged with obtaining money by false pretense. It was claimed defendant secured money from an automobile finance company on cars to which the commonwealth contended he did not hold title.

When the indictment was presented to the December term, 1930, the court quashed the indictment, and in an opinion stated that the wording of the indictment was improper, and that the indictment was carelessly drawn.

In the Murawsky case, for assault and battery, the indictment was quashed, because, in the opinion of the court "the court had no jurisdiction in the proceedings, that the transcript of the alderman does not show that the defendant was held for court, and that the proceedings were improperly in the quarter sessions court."

District Attorney Powers' argument in superior court was based on the following question, "Should an indictment be quashed on the alleged insufficiency of the information after the defendant has had a preliminary hearing and after bail was entered for his appearance at the next session of quarter sessions court, and after a true bill had been found by the grand jury?"

In order that a precedent might be established District Attorney Powers carried the cases to the higher court.

THIS HOSPITAL IS TOWN IN ITSELF

DANVILLE, Pa., April 15.—Two thousand persons and six hundred and seventy acreas of ground go to making the Danville State hospital for mental diseases a miniature town in itself.

These inhabitants, made up of 1800 patients and 300 employes, are practically a self supporting community with all the institutions that comprise a modern village.

Farms, pastures, orchards, vineyards, truck gardens, timber tracts, lawns, athletic fields, building and roads are all included in the community. A church, school, office, factories are also a part of the little group.

Several acres of farm land provide crops of great abundance and variety for the patients and the personnel. The farm crops are augmented by the products of 40 acres of gardens and 16 acres of orchards and vineyards. There are seventy acres of timber land while 14 acres of pasture land give dairy products, beef and pork.

Lawns, athletic fields and extensive grounds provide a beautiful setting for the farm and hospital buildings of the institution.

Many Women Are Favoring Repeal

Sentiment Changes In Many States And Women Voters Seek Dry Repeal

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Increased sentiment for prohibition repeal among women voters in 32 states was reported to Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York, chairman of the women's organization for national prohibition reform today.

State chairmen declared that women workers in the state where the organization is active had succeeded in enlisting widespread support among the feminine voters, and reported membership increases during the year ranging from 25 to several hundred per cent.

Submission of the state reports preceded the final committee sessions which will bring the two-day meeting of the wet group to a close. The reform organization marshalled a thousand of its members for the meeting, which embraced a series of speeches by prominent members in behalf of prohibition repeal, and an address by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, putting his organization on record as thoroughly in sympathy with the work of the group.

Massachusetts and New York groups called attention of their legislatures in memorializing congress to take action on repeal question, while most of the eastern and New England states reported their organizations active in every section.

WARNS BRITAIN OF AMERICAN AIR INVASION

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 15—R. M. Ellis, chairman of the British Radio Manufacturers' Association, has returned from a visit to the United States with a warning to Britain that an intensified campaign is to be made during the next few months to Americanise Great Britain by air.

He asserts that a big American scheme to capture the radio trade of Britain is already under way.

"The scheme of American manufacturers" said Ellis "is to erect short wave stations on the other side of the Atlantic and to broadcast programs specially for British listeners.

"British listeners will have to possess special short wave receivers and these are now being dumped in this country in enormous numbers."

There is little doubt that American manufacturers should wish to invade the British market when it is realized that the wireless industry of Britain had a turnover last year of $100,000,000.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Some Teachers Are Bad Most Good—Dr. Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

An increasing number of letters are coming from teachers who read this column. They apparently are beginning to see that as I urge parents to teach reasonable restraints in children before the school age, I am trying to reduce some of the problems teachers must be troubled with. Teachers are also interested in my feeble discussion of personality problems in school children and in ways and means I have suggested to parents for helping the child succeed in school.

I am impressed by the earnest, conscientious tone of these letters by teachers. Such facts give me a new faith in the profession. I always have believed, however, that among teachers are to be found many of the most sympathetic, sincere and self-denying souls to be met anywhere. The bad opinion so many parents have of teachers in general they get because of a few who hardly merit the privilege to be teachers. Of course, there are some very bad teachers; but there are more who are very good.

It so happens that I spent about 15 years teaching education and psychology in colleges of education of the public schools of New York City and Cleveland. Only about four years ago did I shift entirely to parent education. Prior to that time, nearly all my researches and writings were in the field of learning and teaching a goodly number on arithmetic and class-room problems. I write each month for the "High School Teacher", of which I am associate editor, occasionally for "The Grade Teacher", and have a series of articles on Personality of Pupils now running in the "Journal of Education". I speak about as often before groups of teachers as before groups of parents.

I wish more teachers would grow interested in the problems of parents and would try to know more about the home contacts of their pupils. More and more parents are coming to teachers for advice about the management of their children at home and for counsel in ways and means of home-school cooperation. More teachers, too, are finding opportunities to improve their services and widen their usefulness by active membership in the local P. T. A.

Conscientious teachers are reading this column and reading books written for parents to get suggestions for themselves and to find something they can turn their parents to.

Really there is no such thing as home or school as separate institutions. Pupils have parents, and older children go to school. The best home does the most it can to make the school as useful to the child as possible, and the best school does the most it can to extend its usefulness to the home.

Nobody has a corner on all wisdom. Indeed, nobody really knows very much about anything. We are all just "babes inthe woods". We all have reasons to be very humble striving earnestly to increase our wisdom and, therefore, our usefulness. With our honest endeavor to make the most of our opportunities come a good many satisfactions. For such pleasures we all have a right to seek. Our greatest happiness surely comes in knowing that we have been trying at least to do about the best we can.

Laundryman Is Slain With Ice Pick At Butler

Body Found Wrapped In Blankets In His Living Quarters

BUTLER, Pa., April 15.—Yee Wing Lee, 56, Chinese laundry proprietor of 202 North Main street, was found slain in his bedroom at the rear of his business place late Tuesday afternoon. An ice pick was found sticking through his head, penetrating from the back.

The body of Lee was covered with blankets and a mattress when Constable J. Lawrence Kiester, working out of Alderman Carl G. Phillips' office nearby, became suspicious when he did not see any activity in the laundry. It is believed that Lee was killed some time Saturday night when Lee was seen for the last time by neighbors.

State and city police and other officers began an investigation, and fingerprint experts from the Butler barracks were called to examine the premises.

Lee had lived in Butler for 10 years, but it is not known that he had relatives in this country. He exchanged visits with other Chinese in Pittsburgh.

THE ROMANCE OF ALICE ROOSEVELT AND NICHOLAS LONGWORTH

Alice Bowls Over A Sultan

Oriental Potentate Banishes Harem When Fascinating American "Princess" Visits; Nick Proves A Hero And Shares Glory In Rescuing Friend

Story No. 4

Mrs. Alice Longworth and Mr. R. R. McCormick seen soon after the former's wedding in 1906; and right, Nicholas Longworth as a rising young politician, and playing ball early in his career as the Republicans faced the Democrats in a congressional contest on the diamond. Mrs. McCormick, whose husband later became senator from Illinois and who herself became a congresswoman-at-large from Illinois following his death, has been a boon companion of Alice's.

(This is fourth in a series of six stories on the romance of Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth.)

By ANNE M. KEEZER
Written for Central Press.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—From Honolulu the ship bearing the Taft party proceeded toward the Orient. Again short summer nights followed long summer days on the palatial liner.

On the 18th of August, 1905, the Manchuria docked in Jolo. The party prepared to go ashore to have an audience with the sultan. Filmy summer dresses and lace parasols appeared on the deck, escorted by gentlemen wearing pongee and linen.

But "Princess Alice" had not yet emerged from her cabin.

When she appeared at the last moment a cry of admiration greeted her from men and women alike. She was dressed in flaming red from head to toe. In the brilliant sun she seemed some strong tropical bird that shimmered and dazzled the eye.

Sultan Captivated.

The sultan was completely bowled over. With one magnificent gesture he consigned his wives to oblivion and offered his heart and hand to "Princess Alice". But she evidently had other plans than that of becoming the Sultana of the Sulu Archipelago. The sultan was declined with such grace that his ardor, far from being cooled, led him to provide entertainment for the party accompanying his charmer as Americans had scarcely ever encountered before.

Nick proved himself a hero here in Jolo, and so shared with Alice the glory of the day.

Nick a Hero.

While swimming with a group of men in the party from the ship, Frederick O'Brien, then editor of Cable-News, and since famous for his "White Shadows in the South Seas", was seized with cramps and found himself helpless in the undertow. Nick saw his plight, and diving into the treacherous breakers, managed, after a heart-breaking struggle, to pull his friend back to safety. It was an exploit to endear him to the fearless Alice.

From Jolo the party sailed to Hong Kong. A small group headed by Alice and including Nick, made a side trip to Canton. China was gracious and accorded almost royal honors to America's "Princess of Wales".

On the 15th of September they reached Peking. The empress dowager fell a victim to Alice's charms and invited her and her companions to pass the night at the beautiful imperial summer palace.

The following night the empress dowager gave a formal ball. In a setting of flowers and jewels, of gilded dragons and priceless silks, Alice Roosevelt was as much at home and as fascinating as she had ever been. She was a girl who outshone her surroundings, no matter how gorgeous they might be, by the electric quality of her charm.

In Korea the emperor sent his imperial yellow palanquin to carry "Princess Alice" to his palace. She rode over the streets newly paved for reception, past houses and shops draped with American flags to do her honor.

An imperial bodyguard was lined stiffly along her way, and a five-gun salute announced her arrival to the inhabitants of Seoul.

Alice and her party stayed at the American legation, but Alice and Nick were often observed riding about the city in the emperor's car, which he had given to her to use during her stay.

They were entertained at lunch by the emperor—really a tremendous honor, as it was the first time that an emperor of Korea had ever sat down to a meal with foreigners.

A Fitting End.

At last this royal progress of a young American girl came to an end But to a truly fitting end.

From Yokohama, the Siberia, one of the fastest liners on the Pacific made a record trip to San Francisco bearing Alice and some of her friends, Nick presumably being among them.

At San Francisco Alice boarded a fast train, and was set down in Washington, the proud possessor of a world's record at that time. She had beaten all records for the trip from Yokohama to New York by quite a good margin. She had toured the Orient in oriental splendor She had been proposed to by a sultan and entertained by emperors and an empress.

Perhaps she thought it was time to settle down.

Schwab Victor In Bonus Fight

Charles M. Schwab, Chairman Of Bethlehem Steel Gains Bonus Ratification

SCHWAB POINTS OUT ADVANTAGES

(International News Service)

NEWARK, N. J., April 15.—Charles M. Schwab, the "Old Master of Steel" and chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel, today apparently had scored a victory in his bonus plan fight. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation's bonus plan, under which officers received about $36,000,000 in 14 years and which is being opposed in the courts by a minority group of stockholders, was reported overwhelmingly ratified yesterday at the annual meeting of the stockholders in Newark.

A restraining order by Vice Chancellor Backes in Trenton prohibited stockholders from announcing the result of their voge or recording it pending a determination of the minority stockholders' suit. The management, however, announced it voted proxies representing 72 per cent of the outstanding common and preferred stock of the corporation and it was assumed the management had won approval of the bonus system.

Dramatic Appeal.

Schwab made a dramatic appeal to the stockholders at the meeting. They had condemned him and his plan under which the $12,000 annual salary of Eugene G. Grace, president, had in one year been increased by the sum of more than $1,600,000. Schwab talked for more than an hour and he was overcome when roaring applause followed. Many stockholders rushed forward to shake his hand. The steel man's eyes filled with tears.

Ratification of the bonus plan, it was pointed out, will not prejudice the action of the minority stockholders who are seeking to have the Chancery court order the bonuses returned to the corporation and fix fair compensation in their place.

Grace On "Pedestal".

The stockholders meeting developed that the Mellon interests and their associates are now the largest stockholders in the corporation. It was also brought out that 1930 "to all intents and purposes" was the second best year in net earnings in the history of the company. Earnings in the first quarter of 1931, it was stated, will show the preferred dividend fully covered "with a little balance for the common."

Schwab described the bonus plan as an incentive. He said he had placed Grace "on a pedestal" so that he would have to live up to his high position for the good of the corporation.

NEW CASTLE WOMAN SUFFERED FROM CHILDHOOD WITH CATARRH

Says World's Tonic Removed Scabs in Nose, Watering of Eyes, Ringing Noises in Head, Offensive Breath and Mucous Dripping Into the Throat.

The unusual merit of World's Tonic, the new systemic treatment for catarrh, liver, kidney, bladder and bowel trouble is seen in the number of stubborn cases of long standing which it has relieved.

"Ever since I was a girl I suffered from catarrh of the head. It was very disagreeable. Dry scabs formed in my nose every night. My eyes watered so bad it was an effort to read. I often had heavy, dull headaches, mucous dripped from my head into my throat almost constantly. I had to keep clearing my throat most of the time. There were ringing noises in my ears; each morning my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth. In addition, my breath was foul and I was ashamed to get near anyone for fear they would get a whiff of my breath.

"World's Tonic is the only thing that ever helped me. It has entirely relieved my catarrh, also my chronic constipation and indigestion. I gave World's Tonic a fair trial and I have used five bottles in all and my former trouble has completely disappeared. I am recommending World's Tonic to all my friends," said a young S. Jefferson street matron.

A special treatment for catarrh has long been needed. This can now be had in World's Tonic. It is a systemic treatment and helps combat the disease in two ways—first, by relieving the distress in the nasal passages and throat, which it does almost at once; second by combating the disease at the very seat of the trouble within the system. World's Tonic has brought astonishing results in many cases in this city.

If you suffer from catarrh, talk with the World's Tonic druggist. He will explain the treatment to you. Sold at Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley, Smith's drug store and by all other reliable druggists. (A-161)

Just A Touch Of Ice-Mint. PRESTO'

Corns Wither and Lift Out With Fingers. No Pain

Corn sufferers gather round; get right up close and listen, here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug. Ice-Mint the new discovery made from a Japanese product is said to surely and quickly end all foot misery. Think of it: only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses just shrivel right up and lift off so easy it's wonderful.

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day.

Try it. Just ask in any Drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing like it.

Mere Man's Fancy Turns To Fantastic Underwear

Local Plant Leader In Shirt And Short Output—Use New Machines

New Flair For Flimsy Materials, Colors In Evidence Everywhere

Mere man, long unconcerned over the cut and style of his clothes, has suddenly abandoned his indifference to changes and as a result has plunged headlong into a strange weakness for colors—in underwear!

Long satisfied with his plain white B. V. D.'s he now delights in the most fantastic color creations that could be conceived in the mind of a demented artist.

To meet the new demand the Buckeye Manufacturing company on the Butler road procured new machinery and has become one of the leaders in the production of the new style underwear. The plant has recently installed several new intricate machines to make the rayon shirts which have become nationally popular.

How It All Began.

Telling of the revolution in men's underwear in recent years, L. S. McNab, manager of the plant, said: "It all began several years ago at the garment manufacturers' convention in Chicago. A new suit of underwear—shirt and shorts—was put on exhibition. The suit was similar to the kind in use in gyms and appealed to a few manufacturers. We were one of the few to start immediate manufacture of the new underwear."

And now leaders in the industry are of the opinion that shirts and shorts will ultimately displace the old reliable union suit.

Man's clothes may have changed little in many decades. He still carries the useless sleeve buttons, reminders of the day of chivalry when men used such buttons to attach lace cuffs. He still walks around in trousers that have useless cuffs which carry dust and germs.

But his underwear has changed greatly.

New Machinery.

The new machines to manufacture shirts and shorts are of interest to the visitor who wanders thru the 25,000 square feet of factory floor space at the Buckeye plant. To give an "elastic" stitch to the shorts the plant uses the new Metropolitan hemming machine, which is one of the most intricate pieces of mechanism found in any clothing factory. The machines each employ six spools, including one of rayon thread. The Wilcox-Gibbs flatback stitchers, like the new hemming machines, leave an "elastic" stitch and are used to obtain the specia' design around the borders of the rayon shirts.

Of the color combinations, McNab is assured that the bottom has not yet been reached. While stripes were popular last year, he says, this year has found fantastic colors in the lead at the men's stores.

Pearl buttons on the shorts are manufactured along the Mississippi river valley and are expensive. The button machine in use by the Buckeye plant will attach about 5,000 buttons each day.

In the manufacture of shirts and shorts the Buckeye plant is one of the leaders in this part of the country.

Prohibition Speech At College Chapel

Dr. D. Leigh Colvin Speaks To Westminster Students Tuesday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 15—Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, leader in the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association spoke at the regular chapel service at Westminster College yesterday morning. The Rev. John Orr, assistant professor of Bible was in charge of the chapel service and introduced the speaker.

Dr. Colvin called on the students to "save America from those who would bring back the liquor traffic." His address was a challenge to the students 'to protect, preserve and defend prohibition."

Declaring that colleges have had a large part in the prohibition victory, Dr. Colvin pointed out that college students can have as great a part in maintaining it.

The history of the prohibition movement in the United States was traced by the speaker. For almost 100 years, he claimed, the movement worked quietly. Before the World War, many colleges and universities studied the liquor problem through the departments of sociology, political science and chemistry. Discussion groups started by Bible classes, Y. W. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. organizations on the campuses of many colleges, also had an important part in crystalizing opinion.

So, with the social, economic, moral and political aspects of the liquor problem carefully studies, the colleges and universities swung into line in favor of prohibition. Despite "stuffed ballot" straw votes in the colleges and universities within the last two years, Dr. Colvin believes that the same attitude exists among college students as existed when prohibition was still in its infancy.

Dr. Colvin, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, Ohio, has devoted his life to the interests of prohibition, especially in the colleges. His history of prohibition, written during the fight to have the Eigteenth amendment ratified, loomed large in the campaign for prohibition.

Erie Bootlegger Given Sentence

Meyer Gold, Erie, Sentenced To Atlanta For Year And One Day

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 15—Meyer Gold, 38, of Erie, a self-confessed bootlegger, today was under sentence to serve one year and a day in the Atlanta penitentiary for conspiring to violate the prohibition law, Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker imposed sentence.

Gold, the father of seven children, was aided by a number of character witnesses who appeared in his behalf. Erie residents including county officers, sent letters stating the defendant had borne a good reputation prior to the liquor indictment.

He was tried at Erie in September 1929. The jury failed to reach a verdict and he was listed for retrial at the March term of court in Erie. Instead of going on trial, Gold entered a plea of guilty.

Correct this sentence: "This is a sweet love story," said the middle-aged married man, "and I'm going to finish it if it takes all night."

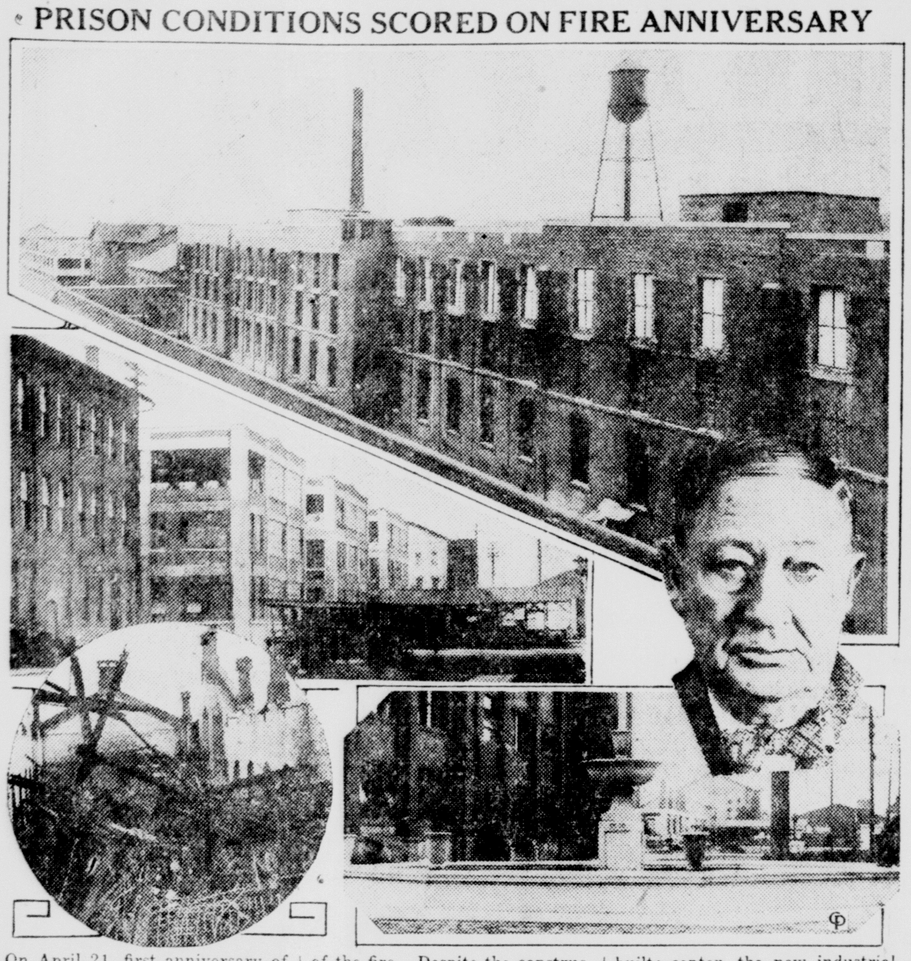
PRISON CONDITIONS SCORED ON FIRE ANNIVERSARY



On April 21, first anniversary of the Columbus, O., state penitentiary fire, in which 320 convicts lost their lives, Warden Preston E. Thomas declares to Central Press that conditions today are just as bad as those prevailing at the time of the fire. Despite the construction of new cell blocks there are nearly twice as many prisoners incarcerated at Columbus as can be taken care of adequately. Photos show, top, the G and H cell block, in which the fire took place, rebuilt; center, the new industrial building which will provide work for hundreds of idle prisoners; below, the memorial fountain to those who lost their lives in the fire. At left is scene at time of fire, and, right, Warden Thomas.

After a trip up the Hudson from New York aboard the U. S. destroyer Evans, the Japanese royal visitors, Prince and Princess Takamatsu, visited West Point Military Academy, where they reviewed our future generals. Above picture shows the Prince, after landing from the destroyer, standing at attention with Major-General William R. Women Govern Arkansas Town

Women councillors, recently elected to govern Mount Ida, Ark., taking the oath of office, following which they selected Mrs. Eva McLane (third from left) as Mayor. The women were elected without aspiring to office. All are for enforcement of the prohibition laws. This is the first time in the history of the United States that women have held all offices in a city government.

De Mar—Father Time's Rival

From all accounts Pheidippides, the Greek, who carried the good news from Marathon to Athens in 490 B. C. was a youth. History does not state his age but he must have been a young fellow because he dropped dead on his arrival. Had he been a comparatively old fellow like Clarence De Mar, for example, he would probably still be running. De Mar recently celebrated his forty-third birthday by training for what he hopes will be his eighth Boston Marathon victory on April 19th. Acclaimed the greatest Marathoner of all time De Mar won the event in 1911, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1927, 1928 and 1930. A victory this year will mark the twentieth anniversary of his first and all Massachusetts is rooting for the "Old Man of Melrose," but none more ardently than his bride of a year.

Tennis Mode

What the well-dressed racqueteer will wear this coming Summer is charmingly illustrated above by Mrs. George T. Brokaw, prominent in New York social circles, who is sojourning at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The outfit consists of a one-piece costume with sleeveless, low-necked waist terminating in shorts, cut full with wide pleats.

Barnard Glorifies Ben Hur

"Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight" is apparently the bon mot at Barnard College these days, judging by the picturesque manner, shown above, whereby the days of the celebrated Ben Hur, charioteer par excellence, are brought to life again by the students of the famous New York seat of learning. The picture was taken during a dress rehearsal for the Olympian Festival, which is held annually at the college.

Georgia is unquestionably the greatest female diver ever developed, and includes among her specialties many of the dives included in the repertories of male champions. She demonstrates her means of defending her title in the meet at New York.

Entire 28th Division To Train At One Time After Present Year

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, April 15.—Approval by Governor Pinchot of the plan to abandon Mount Gretna as the training base for the Pennsylvania National Guard means that considerable work must be performed at the new site before it is in suitable shape for maneuvers. The new grounds, located in Dauphin and Lebanon counties consist largely of mountain land.

According to present plans the camp this year at Mount Gretna will be the last at that location. In 1932 it is hoped to have the first training at the new location.

Much of the work to prepare the new 10,600-acre tract for training probably will be done by the guardsmen themselves. In order to keep down the cost of preparing the site for training the men themselves will be called upon to make roads, build bridges, erect storage sheds and do all manner of manual tasks.

Actual military training for the first several years at the new site probably will be subordinated for other work until the camp site is habitable. For the first several years the new grounds will lack many of the conveniences now available at Mount Gretna.

The proposed new grounds will permit the entire 28th division to train at one time. Heretofore with the limited space at Mount Gretna the training period has been divided. In the future all units will be together at one time for the two weeks of training.

Major General W. G. Price Jr. of Chester is to command his last camp this coming summer. He will retire before the 1931 camp. He will be succeeded by Lieutenant Governor E. C. Shannon of the 52nd cavalry brigade, the ranking brigadier general. General Shannon will be division commander only for the 1931 camp when he in turn will be succeeded by State Treasurer Edward Martin, commander of the 55th infantry brigade., General Martin will command for more than 10 years before reaching the retirement age.

David West To Conduct Chorus At Eisteddfod

Hopes To Lead Local Chorus To Victory In Big Song Festival On May 9

Mixed Chorus of this city will compete in the big Esteddfod to be held Saturday May 9 at Warren, O. under the leadership of David West, one of the city's outstanding and best known choral directors.

The prize for the winner of this competition is $500 and the local chorus is training carefully for the event, being quite hopeful of being returned a winner under the able leadership of Mr. West.

Mr. West has been director of many competing choruses and has been quite successful in training his choruses, so that they were often returned winners. At the last Eisteddfod held in Akron, O., Mr. West led a local chorus to victory, winning the $500 prize.

As the time is getting short before the competition is to be held, all members of the New Castle Mixed chorus have been urged to make a special effort to be present at the rehearsal to be held Thursday evening. The chorus is meeting for rehearsal in the P. & O. Electric Co. lecture room.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold their anniversary meeting in the Legion Home Association building Thursday evening, when nine new members will be taken into the organization.

A tureen dinner had been planned in honor of the new members, but because of the death of Mrs. Margaret Adams, a member of the Auxiliary, this part of the program has been dispensed with, and only the regular business session will be held.

The meeting is expected to be one of the largest that the organization has yet held and a record attendance is looked for by President Flossie Potter.

Wear Your Rubbers And Avoid Colds

Wet Feet, Drafts Light Up Chronic Infections

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Study of the seasonal variation in the number of cases of pneumonia puts the high point from February to May. The low point in June carries on through the summer and early fall. Autumn in the United States is such a beautiful, mild season that it conduces to an outdoor healthy life, and produces few infections. In Europe and England it is a wet, cold, dreary time of year and there pneumonia in an autumn disease.

Our spring, on the contrary, is much less pleasant than spring abroad. Winter really extends into late April, and there is little basis for the exuberance we were taught by our heritage of English poetry to expect in the spring. Rains drench the skin unexpectedly, an open window may chill the whole body, a ride home in a crowded car, packed in with moist and streaming fellow citizens, all conduce to lower the body's resistance.

These factors of wet and cold undoubtedly have a great deal to do with the production of respiratory infections. Doctors have not been able to measure them exactly and are liable for that reason to scoff at them as causative factors in pneumonia. To "catch cold", they say, is to catch an infection. To "catch a chill" is to get a germ. That is quite true, but there is another factor also, which the ancient wisdom of the race ascribes to chilling and wetting the surface of the body.

From the standpoint of infection, recognition of this second factor is all-important.

Serums and vaccines—bacterioligical devices in general—in the prevention of pneumonia are of no value. In spite of much elaborate and careful research there is no trustworthy method of vaccinating against it. This appears to be on account of the many varieties of bacteria which may cause pneumonia and the great variability each variety displays. You may get yourself vaccinated against John Henry Pneumonia when the old boy who is out on a rampage this spring is his cousin Mary Ann. And the female is more deadly than the male, in this as in other things.

The secondary factors of chilling and wetting of the body, however, you can to a considerable extent, control. And after a moderately long lifetime of study of disease, and of scoffing at the necessity of wearing rubbers and raincoats, and changing into dry clothes I am ready to recant and join the chorus of ancient admonitions about don't forget your rubbers.

Long observation of one patient who "catches cold" easily was what caused me to arrive at this conclusion. He has a chronic sinus infection and a chronic bronchitis. He always has a focus of infection to light up and give him a cold in the head or chest. But he may go along for many weeks without disturbance of any kind. Then let him sit in a draft, come out from an over-heated room into the cold, or get caught in a shower, and the whole thing lights up.

A doctor friend of mine has a method of aborting pneumonia even after it has begun. As it usually begins with a chill, you can try it until the doctor comes. A hot mustard foot bath—a teaspoon of mustard to a basin of water; a long, hot glass of lemonade, with ten grains of aspirin and five grains of Dover's powder.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years

Singers Heard; Meeting Tuesday

Forty Two Voices From Allegheny College Heard In Concert Of Sacred Music

Music lovers of the city were given a rare treat Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the First Methodist church when the Croton Avenue Methodist church presented the Allegheny Singers from Allegheny College, Meadville.

The young people, under the direction of Morten J. Luvaas, professor of music of the college, are making their annual spring tour of this vicinity. They are scheduled to sing in Pittsburgh over KDKA Saturday afternoon at 2:15.

As the young people entered the choir loft of the church they were greeted with hearty applause. Their appearance was one of impressiveness and dignity as they stood with heads erect in the black and white surplices.

Prof. Luvaas' appearance was the signal for the beginning of the program and the audience sat spellbound through each number, as these forty two voices rang out, without an accompaniment of any kind. The voices blended harmoniously and without the sign of a voice off pitch; this being due to the intensive training under that master of trainers, Prof. Luvaas.

Program

The program opened with "O Come Let Us Worship," a four part chorus which brought out the seriousness and ideal spirit of worship; the "Cherubim Song" followed and the part of this that was hummed was imitative of a vast pipe organ; "Hosanna" followed and all the praise which the name implies was forcibly brought out.

Ivan Roselle, accompanied by Virginia Tucker at the piano then gave a pleasing group of three numbers: "The Living God," "The Ninety and Nine" and "The Great Awakening"; the chorus again joined in the rendition of "Agnus Dei", followed by "Gladsome Radiance"; then came the remarkable hymn "Gospodi Pomului", which is used in the Russian Orthodox church in an impressive ceremony where the cross is raised; the hymn is built on a rising and falling sequence, the voices fading out to a mere whisper, then coming out to a forcible rendition of the words.

The twenty one young men of the chorus then presented a group of numbers: "Fight," a student song of Finland; "Sarita," a Spanish serenade; "The Broken Melody" and a "Russian Folk Song"; this was then followed by a group of selected college songs; the audience received these numbers with enthusiasm.

The entire chorus gave the closing numbers on the program, including "The Nightingale Six", "Feasants Wedding March," a jolly tune telling of the festivities; "But I Knew" and the finale was a "Czecho-Slovakian Dance Song," an unusual arrangement of a captivating folk song, which gave the chorus plenty of opportunity for displaying the quality of their voices and the splendid training they had received.

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a tablespoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Slick Scheme Is Worked On Grocers

Woman Secures Groceries For Which She Promises Husband Will Pay

Several local grocers have reported a slick scheme which has been worked on them, evidently by the same person, during the past few weeks.

A woman will come into the grocery store and order a large quantity of groceries, which she states her husband will come in and secure late in the afternoon and will pay for them. She then asks permission to take home a part of the groceries, which in most cases is readily given.

Neither the husband nor the woman are ever seen again. The stunt has been worked several times on east side grocers who are now on the lookout for the woman.

Women's Club Hears Of Budget Meeting

Ellwood Garden Contest Is Also Presented At Tuesday Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, April 15.—A discussion of the budget by Mrs. Marie Reymer of Pittsburgh and an illustrated talk by J. W. Offutt on the garden contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce featured the program of the Women's club at its regular meeting on Tuesday. Previous to these talks the regular business meeting of the club took place with the president, Mrs. J. W. Humphrey presiding. Routine reports were received and Mrs. Humphrey announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen for the year beginning September, 1931:

Hospital—Mrs. Robert Shields.
Educational—Mrs. W. Ray Smith.
Music—Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss.
Drama—Mrs. J. Emmett Liebendorfer.

Mrs. Reymer was introduced by Mrs. A. F. N. Thomas, the program chairman, and gave a most interesting talk on budget making in the average family. She emphasized that each budget has to be an individually made one, dependent for its details on the situation and personalities of those concerned. She built up a typical budget, using as a basis average figures. She warned against home ownership unless there was a substantial amount on hand with which to make the initial payment. Adequate insurance,, savings of at least 10 per cent of the income, allowances for all dependent children and care in the buying of too many things on the installment plan were some of the interesting points which Mrs. Reymer brought out.

Following her talk Mr. Offutt assisted by T. W. Bruce, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, made a plea for support by the Women's club of the garden contest now being begun. Pictures showing the change made by attractive shrubbery and flowers were used to illustrate the talk. Following this, Mrs. Thomas announced that the seeds which have been given by the club for free distribution had arrived The Chamber of Commerce will have full power to give seeds in any cases where persons desiring to enter the contest cannot afford to buy seeds.

Mrs. Humphrey then made the suggestion that the Women's club select a flower and make an effort to have it generally grown throughout the town. A motion was made and carried that this be done and Mrs. Humphrey appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. T. A. Clark Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Ely to make the selection.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Pantages Trial Is Nearing End

Defense In Pantages And Four Others Case Is About To Rest

PROSECUTION GAINS VICTORY

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, April 15—With the defense announcing it will rest its case upon testimony already introduced, hearing of the "girl bazaar" charges against Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate and four others, was expected to be concluded here today.

Counsel for the defendants, Pantages, John P. Mills, Jesse Shreve, Olive Day and William Jobelmann, stated they considered the prosecution evidence too weak to require combatting.

The prosecution scored a partial victory yesterday by introducing an asserted confession by Olive Day, alleged seller of girls. Justice of the Peace A. H. Mundo ruled, however, that her statement was binding only upon Miss Day and not upon the other defendants.

Her story, as testified to by a Los Angeles District Attorney's investigator, was to the effect that Mills had phoned her from San Diego ordering two girls for Pantages and Shreve. With Lydia Nitto, Helen Livingston and Jobelmann, Miss Day said she went to San Diego on October 30, according to the investigator.

She told of the rendezvous in the hotel, leaving Miss Nitto alone with Pantages and Miss Livingston with Shreve, according to Miss Day's alleged confession.

Earlier in the day, Miss Livingston called a star witness, provoked surprise by her lack of memory as to what took place. She said she went into the hotel room with Miss Day, Miss Nitto and Jobelmann, but "did not remember what happened."

Mother In Man's Garb Wields Stove Lid Lifter Arrested For Robbery

Young Woman Donned Husband's Clothes When He Could Find No Work, Police Allege

Francis Weber and his wife, Agnes Weber, dressed in her husband's clothes

B. W. R. WALTON
Central Press Correspondent

MISHAWAKA, Ind., April 15.—While her husband stayed at home and took care of their 18-month-old baby, Mrs. Agnes Weber, age 24, donned his clothes and, under cover of darkness, staged a series of bold robberies that extended over a period of almost a year, according to police.

When captured a few nights ago Mrs. Weber, in her husband's clothes, was found slinking down an alley with her mate's soft hat pulled low over her face, police say. In one pocket was an iron stove lid lifter, her only weapon.

Waiting for a Victim

"I was walking up and down West street and across the railroad tracks waiting for someone to come along so I could crack him over the head with the lifter and rob him," she is alleged to have confessed.

The husband, Francis Weber, 30, was arrested later at home and admitted acting as his wife's bodyguard on a number of her burglaries, police say. Both were held pending filing of formal charges of burglary.

"I would hang around in front of a house or store while she broke her way in and gathered up the valuables," Weber is quoted by police as saying, adding "that of course I couldn't go along every time because of the kid."

Husband Out of Work

Weber lost his job as a painter more than a year ago and was unable to find steady employment. Then his wife got the idea of wearing his clothes as a disguise, she admits.

"No one would ever think of suspecting a woman, and for a year it worked," she said.

Police planned a mentality test.

Non-suit Granted In Carl Romeo Case

Plaintiff Fails To Make Out A Case And It is Dismissed By The Court

Sudden ending of the case of Carl Romeo, by his father, Rocco Romeo, against Sam Verterano of Hillsville, came Tuesday afternoon when a non-suit was granted at the close of the testimony for the plaintiff.

The case was one in which damages for injuries to Carl Romeo was claimed, as a result of his having been struck by the automobile of Verterano while the car was being driven by Joe Diluto. The child was hit while crossing a street on his way to school.

Negligence on the part of the driver of the car was alleged but was not borne out by the testimony, and at the close of the case for the prosecution the defense asked and was granted, a non-suit.

9. Lewis And Clark—In The Land Of The Fierce Dacotas

IN THE FALL OF 1804 THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPEDITION, SLOWLY MAKING ITS WAY UP THE MISSOURI, ENTERED THE LAND OF THE FIERCE DAKOTAS, BETTER KNOWN AS SIOUX, ONE OF THE MOST DANGEROUS AND WARLIKE TRIBES IN THE WEST. . . . . .

CAUTIOUSLY THE EXPLORERS ASCENDED THE RIVER, KNOWING THAT FROM THE BANK UNSEEN EYES WATCHED THEIR EVERY MOVE. CONSTANT VIGILANCE WAS MAINTAINED AND CARE TAKEN TO DO NOTHING THAT MIGHT PROVOKE A FIGHT WITH THE LURKING REDSKINS. . . . . .

BANDS OF PAINTED SIOUX, OPENLY HOSTILE, WERE ENCOUNTERED, BUT EACH TIME THE INTREPID WHITE MEN AVOIDED TROUBLE BY SHOWING THEMSELVES TO BE FRIENDLY BUT UNAFRAID AND NOT TO BE TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

THEIR TACT AND PATIENCE FINALLY QUIETED THE SUSPICIONS AND WON THE GOOD WILL OF THESE FIERCE TRIBESMEN. FRIENDLY MEETINGS TOOK PLACE, AND THE PARTY CONTINUED ON ITS WAY THROUGH THE LAND OF THE SIOUX UNMOLESTED. . . . . .

Babe Ruth Fools Them In Opening Battle Of Year

Great Bambino Slugs Out Home Run And Also Steals Second Base

RUTH IN SHAPE CRITICS ASSERT

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Of course the man has a remarkable physique, a natural flair for the thing, and undoubtedly it is whispered about he is one of the greatest ballplayers of all time, but what he admired most today about Babe Ruth was his undying nerve.

Just a few hours after they kicked the king of Spain off his throne it looked dismal enough for all royalty, this emperor of swat popped out of the Yankee dugout and upheld the ancient traditions of his house so nobly that there still seemed left an argument or two on behalf of the divine right of kings. When he picked up his royal sceptre and strode to the plate before those 70,000 opening day fans it was not difficult to imagine every fan was a tree and here we were right in the forest primeval with the great Babe monarch of all he surveyed.

Ruth Smacks Homer.

Then when he cracked that homer No. 1, vintage of 1931, as the Yanks beat the Boston Red Sox 6 to 3, it appeared certain he could wrap about him his royal robes of purple and quite safely dust off the old ermine for many many years to come.

They said his legs had gone Republican and that faint rumors of revolt had been heard from his knees down. Then, too, a revolutionary bulge was reported near his belt line and his eyes, it was understood, had a distinct tinge of red. Indeed, dispatches from the training camp sector indicted it was high time to call out the marines and do some situation-well-in-hand business. But 37-year-old George answered with a kingly edict in stealing a base in the first inning and then proclaimed louder and more firmly with a bourbon-like thrust for the foursacker in the seventh as he clamped on a strict censorship.

But age will tell! Old John Picus Quinn became decrepit early in the afternoon and two other fellows who followed him were feeble also the gallant Robins of Brooklyn fluttering out 7 to 4 in the opener at Boston.

Athletics Win.

Coming from behind just like they did in a majority of their victories last season, the champion Athletics snatched it 5 to 3 from Washington. The A's were gentlemanly and diplomatic and waited until President Hoover departed before they turned loose on the Senators. Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx finally hit their stride and the A's took it in the 11th inning.

Wesley Ferrell, a grand pitcher, got a swell start by holding the White Sox to eight hits and Cleveland won, 5 to 4.

Stewart pitched nicely and the Browns of St. Louis backed him up with good ball to witness the collapse of the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 3.

Ott's homer in the ninth won for the Giants 9 to 5 over the Phillies. Larry Benton's blowup gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 3 victory over the Cincy Reds and Charlie Hartnett hammered in a 6 to 2 routing of the Pirates by the Chicago Cubs.

School Launches Mushball Games

George Washington High Sponsoring Three Leagues; 221 Players

Mushball, with over-night swiftness, has seized a stronghold on the interests of some 221 boys at the George Washington junior high school, where on Monday and Tuesday the first of a one-month series of league games were played before a crowd of spectators. Twelve different teams will take part.

Robert F. Holt, faculty member assigned to supervise the leagues, said that interest is at high pitch and competition keen. He expressed the belief that mushball would take far better than baseball has before.

Whether or not the school plans to sponsor baseball teams is not yet known, although there is a possibility that baseball will be supported as well as mushball.

The 12 teams participating in the mushball games have been sectioned off into three separate leagues, with the playing days set as Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday up until the league play ends May 20.

Principal B. K. Thacker has offered to the best team in the 12 a trophy cup, but the winner will not be decided until the champs of each legue come together when the season closes. The M teams will play only in the M league, the T teams in the T league and the W teams in the W league.

Captains of the various teams are as follows:

KNUTE ROCKNE'S BEST STORIES

Though Knute Rockne was, in his later years, probably the busiest coach in football, he continued in full charge of the distribution of complimentary tickets to Notre Dame games.

The pleas of the players for tickets for Uncle Joe and Aunt Nettie gave Rock many a good chuckle. He must have enjoyed listening to all the yarns the boys put up to get an extra pasteboard or so.

Which reminds me of two funny incidents that happened while Rockne was shelling out the ducats to players.

Last fall, a player approached the coach just before an important game and asked for two tickets.

"Relatives?" queried Rock.

"Nope," the player snapped back, "tickets."

Even Rock got a chuckle out of that.

Then there was the story which concerns Harry Mehre, who did his stuff for Notre Dame about 10 years ago.

Mehre came from Huntington, Ind., which isn't so awfully far from SouthBend, Ind. So Mehre's parents decided to make the trip to see their son play on old Cartier Field. Mehre asked Rock for complimentaries.

"How many?" Knute barked.

"Two," Mehre answered, nervously. Rock looked shocked.

"Good gosh!" he cried, "is the whole population of Huntington coming up as your guests?"

Veterans In Spotlight As Baseball Season Is Ushered In On Tuesday

Chuck Klein, Ruth, Root And Groves Grab Off Starring Honors

Several Rookies Look Impressive, Others Fail To Measure Up

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Baseball fans eagerly scanning the first official box scores of the season today for new idols to acclaim found opening day honors annexed by four old reliables—Chuck Klein, Charley Root, Robert Moses Grove and G. H. Ruth himself.

Klein, who won the National league home run crown in 1929 only to relinquish the diadem to Hack Wilson last year, got off to a running start in the 1931 derby by propelling two balls out of the park. The Philly outfielder didn't sign a contract until last week, and his impressive start without benefit of much spring practice probably is causing other batsmen to ponder long and deeply today on the alleged advantages of the spring training camp grind.

The inaugural day feat of Root, Grove and Ruth gave a rosy tint to the pennant prospects of their respective clubs. Root's injury late last season cost the Cubs the National league pennant. By holding Pittsburgh to four hits yesterday he served notice that he is prepared to shoulder a larger part of the burden in Chicago's drive for the flag this year.

Grove in Shape.

Grove, who whiffed five Senators in three innings and saved Connie Mack's bacon, demonstrated that he is the same iron man who pitched the Athletics to a pennant last year.

Ruth's base running yesterday was as encouraging as his home run for in stealing a base the 37-year-old marvel showed he is in shape for the 154-game grind. Doleful dispatches from the training camp had stated that the Babe's pins were in poor shape.

The season will be a success for Tom Winsett, Red Sox rookie outfielder, if he fails to get another hit all year. Put into the Sox-Yankee game as a pinch hitter "Long Tom" duplicated Gordon Slade's feat of last year when he hit a home run in his first time at bat in a major league game.

Rookies Look Good.

Other rookies who did well were Buzz Arlett of the Phils, Johnny Vergez of the Giants, Gerald Walker of Detroit and Levey and Bettencourt of the Brown. Each collected two hits.

Recruits who failed to set the world on fire in their first start included Nick Cullop of Cincinnati Irving Burns of the Browns, Charley Wilson of the Braves and Luke Appling of the White Sox.

Garlands Plan For Fast Team

The West Pittsburgh Garlands are planning on a fast team in the Lawrence County league this year. A meeting of the team was held last night. Plans for the season were taken up for discussion.

Frank Caravella is president of the team this year, and James Vesella secretary and treasurer. Pop Adams will again manage the team. The team this year will be one of the strongest in the history of West Pittsburg. The team won the first-half of the league last year. The roster this year is practically the same with the exception of John Elesser who suffered a badly injured hand recently.

The Garlands have been holding quite a few practice sessions and are ready to start the season. Games are desired with first class teams prior to the start of the league. Call Pop Adams at West Pittsburg 24-J.

You will find the following idea very helpful when in a hurry to use adhesive plaster: After cutting off the desired length of tape, place a small piece of cloth under the end of the tape still on the roll. The next time you are in a hurry to cut some adhesive tape off, you will not have to pull to loosen it from the roll.

It was the first game of the year for the Boyd coached team and they looked very good. The Union team found Ferrucci for four hits, with Campbell and Mateja having triples.

North Highland To Meet Tonight

The North Highland baseball team will hold an important meeting tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 8:15 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is for reorganization. Plans for the coming season will be discussed. The North Highland team may enter the Lawrence County league.

The following players are asked to be present: F. Jenkins, E. Lamm, L. Lamm, William Mitchell, J. Hill, G. Sergent, E. Lackey, Wochner, Carr, D. Davis, W. Cannon, T. Cannon, Brooks and D. Rhodes.

FIRST TRACK MEET FOR HIGH ATHLETES WILL COME MAY 2

With but a few weeks left until the New Castle high school track team will inaugurate the track season, Coach Wm. L. Klee on Tuesday afternoon revealed the names of several cinder pounders who to date have been making an impressive showing at Taggart field where the local tracksters daily strut their stuff.

Louis Greensburg a veteran from last season looks like a probable starter in the different dash events. Scarazzo who may run the quarter mile this season in fighting hard to secure that berth. Andy Lasky and Mike DeCarbo are training diligently with the shot and discus throws and look promising. Mackey, Rowe and N. Uram will likely represent the local institution in the javelin throw.

Clifford Clemens and Rowe will probably compete for honors in the half mile event in the different meets. Cole looks good on the high jump event. Melder another new candidate has shown impressive form in the pole vault event.

The first meet of the year will be staged on May 2 for the local high team at Geneva College.

Gerson Jewelers-Temple Israel Basketball Team Dine With Sponsor

FIFTEEN ATTEND TUESDAY NIGHT

Jack Gerson, sponsor of the Gerson Jewelers-Temple Israel basketball team, champions of the "A" division of the New Castle Church League gave the players a fine testimonial dinner last evening at his home 211 Northview avenue.

The early part of the evening was spent in cards and music. Later the boys were invited into the dining room, where the tables were piled with many good things to eat. For the next hour and half eating was the main topic. The food was delicious and quite tasty. It was a splendid banquet for the champions. Mrs. Jack Gerson prepared the food.

With the eating of the dinner out of the way the next diversion was a short speaking program. "Eph" Solomon acted as toastmaster and called upon the following for short talks—Coach Ray Nolte, Dr. Herman Plant, captain of the team, Jack Gerson, the host and sponsor of the team and Charles "Bugs" Walther, sports writer. Mr. Nolte the coach and Mr. Walther each received beautiful gifts in appreciation of their work with the Gersons this year.

Gerson Gives Talk

Jack Gerson in a fine talk congratulated the boys on the winning of the championship and also presented them with a handsomely engraved trophy that will be placed in the Temple Israel for many years to come. It was the first title for the Jewish boys and they were proud of their achievement. Mr. Gerson promised to back the boys as long as they cared to have a basketball team.

Local Fans See Thompson Win

Cut Above Eye Causes Freeman To Lose Welterweight Title

RODGERS LOSES, GOODMAN WINS

Approximately 100 New Castle fight fans witnessed the welterweight championship of the world pass from Tommy Freeman to Young Jack Thompson in the twelfth round of a battle scheduled to go 15 chapters at the Public auditorium, Cleveland last night. Nine thousand fans were at the fight and the gross receipts totalled $46,670.

In the eleventh round Thompson landed a right on Freeman's left which was practically closed and the blood flowed profusely. When he went to his corner his handlers were unable to stop the blood and would not let Freeman answer the bell for the twelfth round and the referee, Eddie Davis of Akron awarded a technical knockout to Thompson from whom Freeman had captured the championship six months ago.

Freeman had an edge on Thompson when the fight ended.

Chic Cisneros, Mexican featherweight defeated Jackie Rodgers Pittsburgh, in a six round preliminary.

Joey Goodman, Cleveland won from Tommy Grogan in a 10 round bout. He gained his edge in the first six rounds which Grogan could not overcome.

Gorilla Jones, Akron proved too fast for Paul Pirrone, Cleveland, in another 10 round bout. Jones dropped Pirrone for a count of eight in the last chapter.

So the deporting of 400,000 aliens will help conditions? Perhaps these fellows don't eat Wheat products.

Long Workout For Senior Candidates

First Scrimmage Of Spring Training Season Is Held On Monday Afternoon

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh sent his New Castle high school football candidates through another long session on Tuesday afternoon under a glaring sun at Taggart field. The workout yesterday was made up of calisthenics, clipping the dummy and a long signal drill. The first scrimmage of the spring training season was staged on Monday afternoon.

The first string team that ran through signal drills on Tuesday was composed of Nick Uram at quarterback, Wrona, a new boy at fullback, Reynolds, McIlor and John Uram at the half posts, DeCarbo at center, Crisci and Mike at tackles, Bablarz and Workman at guards and Ciccone, Ostrosky and Kazenski at ends.

Fred Hileman a veteran from last year reported for the first time on Tuesday afternoon and was used at end. Andy Maki, Gene Burns, and Tom Rambo have been making a good showing in the past few days on the second team. If they continue the good work they may be among the first eleven to oppose Ridgway High of Erie on April 24 here.

Harry Crisci, Mike DeCarbo, Jimmy Mike, Ciccone and Ostrosky have also been showing up well. Joe Wrona a new lad on the squad is being groomed for a fullback berth.

OFFICER SAMUELS NOT DOING SO WELL

Reports from the Jameson Memorial hospital this morning are not so favorable as to the condition of Police Officer Clarence Samuels, who has been in the hospital over a week, suffering from a relapse of flu.

Mr. Samuels has developed a case of neuritis and is suffering a great deal of pain. His friends hope for a speedy recovery, although it will be some time before he leaves the hospital.

Sarazen's Daring Wins Tournaments And Loses Them!

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth article in which a star amateur golfer interprets the methods of the game's greatest so that you, too, may improve your game. Watch for the next.

Number Four

Gene Sarazen's success—or his losses—are based on his daring and nerve to go for the cup under the most favorable or adverse conditions.

This confidence has put many thousands of dollars into the little Italian's pockets and—also has afforded many of his disappointments.

His recent winning of the La Gorce Open was a result of going for a long putt that, had he missed the cup, would have made it doubly hard coming back when the result would have meant a tie.

Sarazen fairly beams with confidence when playing a round for big or small stakes. He will play a brassie, or a spoon, from very deep rough in order to cover the distance to the pin.

Perhaps he will make the grade, and then again, he will miss, but nevertheless he went for it to win, lose or draw.

It is such golf as this that makes Sarazen the most dangerous professional on the link today. There is only one other outstanding golfer who can match Gene, and he is Walter Hagen. They both assume the same attitude when playing together, and the breaks decide the results rather than any golfing supremacy.

Sarazen scored well at Scioto, during the Open of several years ago, and is looked upon to produce great results this year when the Ryder Cup team takes the field against the British over the same course.

At the rate he has been going this winter (and the new ball seems to have stirred him up) he will be one of the most dangerous of the lot when the National Open gets under way at Toledo this year.

Next: Smith and Shute Stances.

Batting Eye Tops Pitching Arm—Here's Proof

Ability to hit 'em high, wide and handsome calls for bigger pay than does mound skill, as this layout shows. Four of the highest priced hitters in the major leagues this year will be paid a total of $180,000 for their efforts, $94,500 or more than twice as much as the total of $85,500 four of the highest priced pitchers will receive. Lou Gehrig, getting the smallest salary of the Big Four hitters, will receive as much as Wesley Ferrell, best paid of the pitchers. Babe Ruth will get almost as much as all four pitchers.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

CLEVELAND was the mecca for fistic fandom last night. Nine thousand fans paid $46,670, to see Young Jack Thompson win the welterweight crown from Tommy Freeman. The Californian dropped the title to Freeman six months ago at Cleveland.

SCOTTY MONTEITH, Detroit matchmaker, was at the fight.

RED ROBINSON and Joe Keally, Pennsylvania referees, watched the Cleveland third man handle the five battles on the card.

AFTER the fight Johnny Deutsch chirped with joy because Jackie Rodgers took a lacing from Chico Cisneros. Deutsch formerly managed Rodgers but the colored lad quit him recently.

PATSY BRANNIGAN, former bantamweight, was at the ringside.

EDDIE DAVIS, the referee, is well known here. He is a relative to Joe Alexander. It was he who formally passed the title on to Thompson when Freeman did not come out for the twelfth round.

STAN TRESER, Walter Hamilton, Tommy Jones, Billy Fazzone, Billy Williams, "Doc" Moore, Tommy Blake, Johnny Bender, Ed. Fritz, Bobby Latera, Guy Frances, Bernie Hanlon and about 80 other New Castle fans witnessed the tilt.

PROFESSIONAL wrestling will be ushered in at Pittsburgh tonight when Jim McMillen and Young Romano meet.

JIMMY DUNN, Eddie Mead, Danny Dunn, Mickey Silverman, Young Tommy McGinty, Larry Atkins and other notables circulated among the Cleveland fight fans.

BY the way Jimmy Dunn did not handle Joey Goodman last night. Dunn and Goodman have had a spat and Joey showed the effects of it last night. He appeared drawn too fine. Eddie Mead seconded Goodman who fought Grogan.

THE "dead ball" got a slugging yesterday. Klein got two while Ott, Critz, Hartnett, Ruth and Winsett bounced the ball outside the fence for homers.

TALKING about depression—yesterday's baseball opening shows that fans can dig up a few simoleons. Two hundred and fifty thousand turned out to see the ball games and nine thousand fans watched the fight at Cleveland.

LUIS CARPENTERO continues to chirp that he would like to fight Johnny Edwards, the West Virginia Welshman who has been going good every place he appears. Carpentero never put up a bad fight here and wants to return.

"HOW does it feel to manage a champion?" Jimmy Dunn was asked by a fan last night. "Just like having a keg of powder and holding a match over it," replied Dunn. "You can never tell when an explosion is coming."

JOHNNY KILBANE with his silver hair greeted the boys as they stepped inside the big auditorium at Cleveland. "Hello, New Castle," was his cheery greeting.

BY the way Big Sam Cohen who picked a fight with K. O. Kitts here yesterday said he is now ready to step into the ring. He claims that the death of a friend caused him to break his contract to box Pat Smith.

* * *

EMMETT ROCCO is scheduled to fight King Levinsky at Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh, according to Pittsburgh ring boys. Rocco is in hard training here. Levinsky is Chicago's latest sensation in the heavyweight ranks. Previous to this battle Levinsky will tackle Johnny Risko at Boston, April 21.

New Family Here Meant New School

(International News Service)

BOXFORD, Mass., April 15.—The schoolhouse situation in this north shore town was a minor issue until the arrival of Charles Maynard, a farmer, his wife and twelve children, ten of whom are of school age.

Prior to the coming of the Maynards, children of the town were cared for in a small schoolhouse. But ten Maynards made the schoolhouse a crowded situation.

Faced with this problem, the town appropriated $15,000 for the construction of a new schoolhouse of four rooms which the Maynards now occupy practically by themselves.

Extra Six Months, Wipes Off Smile

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—John Lawson grinned as he walked out of federal court here, fined $200 by Judge Kirkpatrick for transporting forty barrels of beer.

He had nearly reached the door when Judge Kirkpatrick summoned him back.

"I have," said the judge, "just learned you are a second offender, so I'll just add a six month jail sentence to that fine."

Lawson left the court, no grin visible.

Nemenyi Appeal Being Reviewed

Court Of Appeals At Youngstown To Rule On Fate Of E. N. Nemenyi

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 15—E. N. Nemenyi, newspaperman and part-time employe of the Mahoning county board of elections, today awaited the decision of the court of appeals for dismissal of the case in which he was convicted of presenting a bill for false payment as the result of a sweeping investigation of the electoral body.

Attorneys for Nemenyi contended that he was convicted on a technicality and for this reason asked dismissal of the case. County prosecutor Ray Thomas requested the court to uphold the conviction.

The newspaperman's case attracted wide attention during his trial because of Nemenyi's prominence in Mahoning county civic affairs.

The court announces it will make known its decision next Monday.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

The Phils will win the National league pennant.

The Athletics are doomed to American league cellardom.

The Braves have a red-hot ball club this year.

The Robins are slated for a lowly berth in the second division.

The White Sox and the Giants are evenly matched in strength.

That is, if the results of the spring exhibition series are to be taken at their face value. But anyone who places implicit faith in the outcome of March and April practice games is the kind of guy who thinks tossing the spotted cubes is a stable means of trying to earn a living.

Spring exhibition games are like those movie trailers which advertise next week's celluloid opera—lots of action, very interesting, but they have no plot.

To the uninitiate the result of the Philadelphia pre-season city championship series is very amazing. The Phils, tail-enders in the National league last season, trounced their haughty fellow citizens, the world champion Athletics, in convincing manner.

The Phils not only outhit the heavy-hitting champs, but smacked the offerings of such stellar Athletic mound lights as Lefty Grove and Rube Walberg all over the lot.

But it doesn't mean anything.

Mr. Connie Mack, boss of the A's, likes to win spring exhibition games, but he is first concerned with what his club will do in the regular season. Canny Mr. Mack won't let his athletes extend themselves to the limit to capture a lot of meaningless early April tilts.

Last year, it will be remembered, the Phils trounced the A's in the city series and then went on to finish last in the National, while the Athletics proceeded to capture the American league pennant and the world series.

What goes for spring games also goes for the manner in which the athletes conduct themselves during exhibition contests.

Raw rookies without number have maced the horsehide to shreds in late March and early April. But remember their names. They'll be out of print by mid-June.

At the same time it may be noted that Messrs. G. H. Ruth and L. R. Wilson have been doing very little sharpshooting in the last few weeks. Their home runs this spring have been few and far between and some have been of the anemic or aggravated two-bagger variety.

All of which may be taken to indicate that Messrs. Ruth and Wilson will again make home run history this season.

Chicago Cubs Trip Pirates

Charley Root Limits Pittsburgh To Four Hits In Opening Game—Score 6-2

LEO HARTNETT IS HOME RUN HITTER

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, April 15.—The Chicago Cubs got away to a fine start for the 1931 season yesterday afternoon by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 6 to 2. A crowd of 45,000 attended the opening game of the year.

It was a superb piece of pitching by Charley Root that made the Pirates curl up and take a setback. Root had a baffling curve working that was only found four times by the Pirates for safe hits. Two of the hits off Root were for doubles, with L. Waner and Hemsley the sluggers.

The Cubs founds Larry French and George Grant for ten swats. French allowed seven hits in seven frames and Grant was found for three in one inning.

Leo Hartnett, the Cubs catcher, was the longest hitter of the game with a home run.

Wave Of Selling Brings Drop In Stock Prices

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 15.—A wave of selling which awaited the first tap of the opening bell on the big board today carried prices of a long list of the Industrials and Utility favorites 1 to 3 points lower. A 2 per cent drop in Steel Ingot production, as reported in the Steel Trade Weekly Reviews, and uncertainty over dividend action by two or three directors' boards, unsettled the market and gave the bears an excuse for deluging the board with selling orders.

Vanadium dipped 2½ points to a new low at 48 while awaiting official report on the dividend action of the directors of this corporation. United States Steel was again under pressure and dropped off to 134¼. This is the lowest price in more than two years, the stock having been given strong support at 150 in the 1929 market break. Bethlehem Steel sold in good volume at 50, down 1½.

In the Utility group, Standard Oil led the downward move, with a loss of 3 points at 72¼. Consolidated Gas, Columbia, North American and other active shares fell off a point or more, but selling volume was not heavy. Westinghouse dipped under 77 for a 2-point loss and American Tel and Tel was down 2¼ at 187¾. American Can and DuPont lost 1½ points each.

The bears succeeded again in pushing prices "lower on the tape," but in nearly all sections of the market selling pressure dried up early in the second hour. The Oils and Coppers held steady, in the face of a further softening of Metal and Oil prices and a 56,000-barrel daily increase in Crude Oil production last week. Chrysler lead the reaction in the low-priced motor stocks and fell off 1⅝ to 21½. Fox Film reached a new low for the year at 22⅞.

Cotton lost about 10 points in the early trading, while Grain was firm. Call money was unchanged at 1½ per cent.

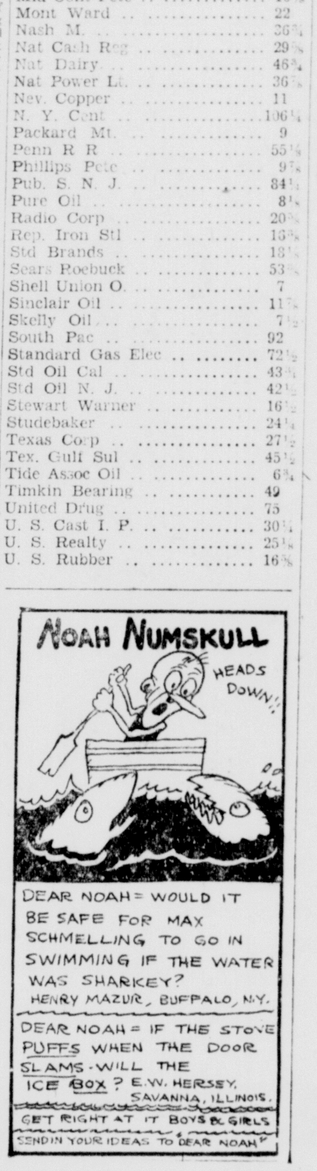
Falls Down Stairs, Sues For $75,000

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 15.—Mrs. Olma Barton has brought suit for $75,000 for a broken nose received, she alleges, in a fall down a flight of stairs in a house owned by the South Union Coal Company.

In her suit against the company, in which negligence is charged, Mrs. Barton lists as results of the broken nose: impaired eyesight, sympathetic paralysis of the nerves of the stomach, stoppage of one nostril, headaches, dizzy spells, hallucinations and nightmares.

Mr. Hoover won't be called a super-man in the next campaign. Anything that sounds like "soup" is too suggestive.

Germany paid out more than $225,000,000 in unemployment relief last year.



Sells His Measles

Determined to serve his schoolweary playmates, 10-year-old Bobbie Bleecker (above), of Wilmington, N. C., made the most of his recent case of measles. Business became so profitable that Bobbie opened an office on the front porch of his father's home, and cleaned up before the eventual crash.

You're the JUDGE

The Decision

The court held for Hicks.

The judges reasoned thus:

An offer of a reward might be so expressed as to exclude any apportionment of it. But here a compensatioin was offered in general terms. It was consistent with honesty and fair dealing that a proportion of the reward should be paid according to the sum actually restored.

Railway Company Is Asking Authority To Discontinue Service

Pittsburgh, Mars And Butler Railway Company May Abandon Lines

Receiver For Company Files Petition In Pittsburgh Federal Court

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—A federal court rule, returnable April 20, was on file here today directing the Public Service Commission, creditors of the Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Railways Company, and the general public to show cause why a petition seeking authority of the court to discontinue operation should not be granted.

The petition was filed before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker by Maurice R. Scharff who was appointed receiver for the utility on April 6 last. Scharff said the company is being operated at a heavy financial loss and money necessary to rehabilitate the line would be unwarranted by the revenue to be derived, based on operating revenues for the past few years.

To Post Notices

The court instructed the receiver to post notice of the rule in stations of the company, on street cars and in legal journals.

The railways company, commonly known as the "Butler Short Line," extends from Etna to Butler. The friendly receivership resulted from an equity suit filed by the Harmony Short Line Railway, Bus and Land Company.

Scharff's petition pointed out that after a personal inspection of the railway company's equipment, right-of-way and trackage, he found it unsafe to continue operation. To do so, he said, would incur danger and risk to lives of operating employes and the traveling public.

Revenues Decrease

He estimated at approximately $141,119.37 the amount necessary to put equipment, roadbed and tracks in a reasonably safe condition and to make necessary repairs of the 16 miles between the Mars car shops and Butler.

Gross revenues have steadily decreased in recent years, the petition set forth, and business so far this year has dropped approximately 60 per cent, the gross revenue being insufficient to meet the filed payroll. The petition recorded a revenue of $212,107 for 1929 and $158,338 in 1930.

Phillips Appeals From Assessment

Claims That Property Is Assessed Higher Than Average

BUTLER, Pa., April 15.—Claiming that his property in Penn township on the Butler-Pittsburgh road, was assessed for more than it is worth, Thomas W. Phillips Jr., former congressman, today filed an appeal from the assessment made by James Maharg, assessor, and asked, through his attorneys, the court to readjust the matter. The appeal probably will be heard at the May term.

The former congressman's property in Penn township was assessed at $150,000. He appealed to the board of appeals, consisting of the county commissioners and the assessor, to reduce the assessment, which the board refused to do.

Phillips claims the valuation fixed by the assessor is more than the property would sell for, is more than double the value placed by the same assessor on land of the same character adjacent the Phillips property, that the highest value placed by the assessor on any other land in the township, including improvements, is $200 an acre, while his land was assessed at $500 an acre, and that the total valuation placed on land in the township, 16,000 acres, including improvements, is $1,179,390, or an average valuation of only $74 an acre.

WEALTHY MEN ARE ALLEGED PATRONS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 15—Swooping down on a so-called "love mart" which authorities say has catered to wealthy men for six years, detectives today seized a woman known as "Baroness Kuhewindt" and confiscated records and names of more than 35 girls.

The woman was hurried from the North side apartment where she was arrested and locked up in an outlying police station where she was held incommunicado.

Records seized include the names, photographs and telephone numbers of some 35 girls. All will be questioned, the state's attorney's office announced.

A list of wealthy men, presumably patrons of the agency, was found by the raiders. These men will be questioned as well, it was announced.

The apartment was well furnished and in an exclusive residential area.
